DANGEROUS BANK-NOTE INFLATION IN NORTH CHINA

In last week's issue of The Review there was an article entitled, "Financial Legerdemain in North China." In this week's issue there is more on the same subject under the heading, "Dangerous Financial Juggling and Inflation in the North." No other publication has touched this subject, but we would be willing to wager that Japanese attempts to undermine the Chinese currency system by bank-note inflation through the new "Federated" Bank will shortly become a subject of general discussion. It remains to be seen whether Japan's financial "war" will be as successful as the military phase.

Also there is an article about the four Japanese groups which are struggling for supremacy here and the latest forecast of personnel of the new government which was scheduled for "birth" on March 1, then postponed to March 15 and apparently has again been postponed.

The activities of three Dictators in the Far East provide subject for discussion, and there is an amusing article about an American professor who received a Japanese decoration and then wrote a critical book.

"Trying Life on the Isolated Island," describes the feelings of numerous Chinese at Shanghai who find themselves restricted on every hand. An article from Chungking tells of efforts at reorganization. In addition there are summaries of the military situation along the Yellow River, Japan's moves toward economic control in the North, the strange Moscow trial and other matters.

If you are not familiar with The Review, read this week's issue and you will immediately see why it is the most widely quoted English-language journal published in China. Copies of this week's issue may be obtained at all the news stands and book stores but it is more convenient to have the paper delivered to your home or office. The rate is $12 a year, including postage. Send orders to

PRICE THREE DOLLARS

The success of its predecessor, "Shanghai's Schemozzle," has induced the publisher to present the public with a companion volume, "Second Spasm." This new album is similar to the first in format, but there the similarity ends, for all the comments from the humorous pen of "In Parenthesis" and the cleyer cartoons by "Sapajou" are entirely new.

Another Tribute

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—As one of the many residents of Shanghai who have good reason to regret the considerations of ill-health that have impelled Mr. Haward's resignation from the arduous duties of editorship of the "North China Daily News," I would also like to add my meed of appreciation of his devoted labours in the cause of humanity. There were many occasions during the past five years when I had the privilege of calling upon him and enjoying his friendship, and from personal knowledge of his richly endowed personality, I can gratefully recall his warm-hearted sympathy.

He never spared himself during the whole period of the difficult years of his editorship, and was ever ready to range himself on the side of those who had a heart to feel for victims of oppression and who had the moral courage to protest against religious and racial intolerance. When he felt he was in the right, nothing could turn him from the cause he championed. In this manner, he upheld the highest traditions of British journalism by virtue of his sincerity, frankness and high regard for truth and justice. His many friends in Shanghai will miss his genial smile and sage counsel, and sincerely hope that his health will be speedily restored so that he may be spared to enjoy many more years of fruitful activity in promoting the highest interests of humanity.

MOSCOW DRAMA

Knowledge of the Facts

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—A very well written letter by ANALYSIS, but in reality, alas, by just another RUSSIAN PATRIOT, confirms the fact that it is always the case when a gifted (I laud your writing capability ANALYSIS) columnist is at a total loss for ipso facto argumental facts he usually proceeds along a very slippery path of correcting the opponent's phraseology, "circles" as he calls them, picking the same from underground, and of course the construction of certain sentences which he misinterprets very advantageously indeed.

ANALYSIS apparently has no facts to argue with. Regarding the purge, trial and an "apparent unrest in Sovietland" he asserts: "A knowledge of the fact, MR. BERK, would be a greater help than just assumption." Someone of us apparently: "Knows all, sees all, hears all." I hand you the mantle, ANALYSIS, if you assume it must be me. You have the knowledge! But kindly add: derived from your own ideas. As for my humble self, I'm just "correctly assuming."

And now about "the very sick wolf." Regarding the bold, bad cats that walk around, ANALYSIS, apparently defending RUSSIAN PATRIOT voices his opinion in a manner similar to the latter, who says: "The unbelievable cruelty of Soviet régime in a heterogeneous country like Russia quite logically produced the very centrifugal movements away from Moscow."

'Nuf sed. Yes, the true ideology and consequent comments derived from the above sentence are too apparent.

So keep on prophesying about the "imminent fall of Kremlin tyrants," Looks like you've been doing so for twenty-one years.

Havas, Reuter, Transocean, Kuomin, and even the Soviet Tass, plus your own derivations from the telegrams and the sure facts "on the paper" re the "apparent unrest"—may guide you!

As for us, the poor scribe, we have no knowledge of the "facts." The monopoly is yours.

May I ask you, gentlemen, before concluding this letter—a necessary one which shows everything so plain and clear indeed, why you insist on calling yourselves "Russian Patriots"?

J. BERK.

"MUST WE HAVE WAR ?"

Thanksgiving for Victory

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—In the letter signed JACKIE'S TEACHER which you publish in today's issue of the "North-China" the writer asks: "When did the Vicar of Christ bless the armies that took part in the rape of Abyssinia?" I do not know whether any such blessing was bestowed before the event but it is certainly a fact that masses in celebration of the Italian victory were held in Roman Catholic churches in Shanghai and elsewhere. Surely this amounts to the same thing.

A letter of protest, written by myself under a pseudonym, appeared in your evening contemporary and resulted in a mild controversy on the subject.

WELSH RUGBY

Welch Regiment v. Llanelly

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—There are times when we like to try and measure up our sporting capabilities as against home standards. Recently, the Welch Regiment team, that could hold its own against any Shanghai or Hongkong Rugger side, played in Wales against Llanelly the leading Welsh Rugger side this year, and the score was 39 points to nil in favour of Llanelly!

LIGHT OPERA AT THE LYCEUM—"HUSSAR LOVE"

Shanghai should feel very proud of having in its midst such a distinguished troupe as the Russian Light Opera Company which for many seasons has been consistent in the production of excellent operettas. On Thursday night the members of the company enhanced a fine reputation by successfully presenting to a crowded Lyceum Theatre Kalman's "Hussar Love." It was three hours of sheer delight during which such unpleasant things as depression and other banal cares were completely and conveniently forgotten.

Mr. V. Valin, that inimitable and talented comedian, in portraying the role of Lieut. Wallerstein, the uncouth and gauche infantry officer, among the dashing and brilliantly uniformed hussars' continually getting into scrapes, was simply superb. His every appearance was greeted with thunderous applause and there is little doubt that this consummate artist has never been seen to better advantage. His impromptu solo dance was screamingly funny and was encored again and again. Mr. Rosen made an impressive, yet laughable, appearance after a lengthy absence as the fierce, albeit kindly, field-marshal who eventually consented to the marriage of his daughter to Morosi, the volunteer officer, played by Miss Bitner who with her usual vivaciousness, acted and sang in a manner that was well up to her accustomed high standard. Lovely Miss Orlovskaya as the widowed baroness—the leading feminine role—was exquisite, singing and acting with her customary charm and verve. Opposite her was Mr. Slobodskoy cast as Capt. Lorenti. He too, was in good voice which he knows how to exploit to the fullest advantage, whilst his ability to utilize the stage is just as good. Miss Nevskaya confirmed the good impression she made in "Rose Marie"; this captivating artiste has now proved herself a decided acquisition to the company, her acting and stage presence improving with each appearance. The remainder of an excellent cast lent fine support.

The costuming, scenery, lighting arrangements and ballet ensembles were all of a high class and left nothing to be desired. Among the highlights of an excellent evening's entertainment were "Parade of Beauties" and "Good Night, Vienna," both performed by Mr. Volsky's carefully trained ballet. A word of praise must also go to Mr. Valin for producing this delightful light opera and to Mr. D. Zake, who as the musical director, contributed in no small way to the success of the presentation.

"Hussar Love" will again be performed to-night and to-morrow night and Shanghailanders who enjoy good music and fine acting should go along to see it—it's really three hours well and profitably spent.—F.A.P.

Smiles on Regaining Senses After Crucial Operation

Kansas City, Mar. 9.

Surgeons attending Miss Sylvia Eugenia Davis, 20-year-old girl who has never been able to use her limbs, to-day expected to know by nightfall whether she would recover from an operation on her spinal cord.

Yesterday her surgeons said that their patient had an even chance of recovering and of using her paralyzed limbs.

The unusual operation involved changes in the nerves running from the spinal cord to the brain. Miss Davis, on regaining consciousness, was smiling and her respiration was regarded as a "favourable indication of a successful recovery."

Miss Davis by painstaking efforts prior to her operation, had learned to write, draw and paint by holding the appropriate instrument in her mouth.—United Press.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF MARCH 12, 1878

From Hongkong:—The "Daily Press" says the Race Ball, which came off on Monday night at the City Hall, though rather less numerously attended than usual, was in every other way a most decided success. The Governor and Mrs. Hennessy, with Admiral Hillyar, were amongst those present, and the company included a large number of naval and military officers and visitors to the Colony. The decorations were on a modest scale, but were in good taste and in keeping with the occasion. The colours of the owners were displayed on small shields, which were wreathed with evergreens, while the pillars and balustrades were festooned with the same, horse-shoes being suspended here and there amongst the greenery. The number stand was brought into requisition for showing the number of the dance, while the saddling bell and the starter's red flag were utilized to commence the dances. Dancing was kept up with spirit until nearly three o'clock, when the company dispersed. A communique to the "China Mail," says the nomination of the new Pontiff, Leo XIII was celebrated by a Thanksgiving Te Deum at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, on the evening of the 3rd instant, when the Governor and a large number of the Catholic community were present. Cakes and champagne were served and the President, Mr. A. Da Silveira, proposed the health of the Governor, thanking him at the same time for the honour of his first visit to the room of the Catholic Circle. This was followed by three cheers for him, and the Choral Society of the Circle struck up "God save the Queen." Hennessy proposed the health of the newly-elected Pope and that of Bishop Raimondi, and the Choral Society again played "God Save the Queen."

DR. TOWNSEND PUTS IN APPEAL

Supreme Court Asked to Review Sentence

Washington, Mar. 10.

Dr. F. E. Townsend, founder and leader of the Townsend old-age pension movement, to-day asked the Supreme Court to review the validity of the prison sentence imposed on him for contempt of the House of Representatives by the District Court of the District of Columbia a year ago.

Dr. Townsend contended the District Attorney's refusal to permit his introduction of manuscripts of testimony at the House Committee hearing was an error calling for reversal of the court decision.

Dr. Townsend walked out on the House Committee when it denied him permission to read a prepared statement.—United Press.

Irish Delegates Returning After March 15

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Mar. 11.

The Anglo-Irish negotiations yesterday were again confined to trade talks, according to official Irish circles.

Progress is said to be still very difficult and the chances of success or failure remain about equal.

It is now practically certain that the talks will proceed until March 15, and that the Irish delegation will return home on the following day.—Reuter.

—said Johnnie Walker

The fact that whisky is in "the prime of life" when it is old.
The fact that it takes many separate whiskies blended together to make a good whisky. In the blending of Johnnie Walker, every one of these whiskies is chosen for its distinctive flavour and character.
The fact that the blenders of Johnnie Walker can guarantee consistent excellence year by year because of the enormous reserves of fully matured whiskies at their disposal.

If the Bar Boy Will Stand For It

Shanghai's Dermots, Desmonds and Dans are going to have a quieter time this year than they are wont to have upon St. Patrick's Day, and it behoves all good friends of Ulster and Eire (which advices from London say should be rhymed with Sarah) to try and make it up to them a little. A few unusual suggestions will be found among the pictures on this page which it is thought might make March 17 a little brighter than it otherwise would be for our exiles from the Emerald Isle. Some facts and fancies called up by the pictures will perhaps be acceptable to those who find it difficult to make up their minds in this matter of raising the spirits.

Here's to the Liberty all over the world, and everywhere else.—Irish toast.

An Irishman's Cognac

James Hennessy was the son of a wounded captain in the King of France's "Irish Brigade" who had settled at Cognac, in the department of Charente, in 1765 because his regiment was stationed nearby. If the King of France's Irishmen could have found a better 'ole than the crack brandy district of France they would no doubt have gone to it.

Anyhow, Captain Richard the wounded sent presents to friends in the Ould Counthry of the amber-coloured nectar of his adopted home —"little suspecting" the story naively goes, "that their response would prove overwhelmingly enthusiastic." In time he began to do a small business on a commission basis with his native land. James his son, the original Jas., started the distillery and was elected Senator under Louis XVIII, as his descendant of the sixth generation, the present-day Jas. Hennessy, is also Senator of the Charente.

You will not find the word brandy on Messrs. Hennessy's bottles, for their brandy is entitled by French law to call itself cognac, being "Brandy distilled from grapes gathered within the legally defined boundaries of the Charente district." Their Three-star mark was adopted in 1860.

It is said that brandy was first made 300 years ago by a Dutch apothecary living in Cognac who boiled wine in a simple still and condensed the rising vapour into brandewijn or "cooked wine." Three-star Hennessy is produced in much the same way to-day—no modernized distilling apparatus impairs its quality. "The pot-still has a delicate nose," say the peasants, by which they mean that the smallest fault in the wine will be emphasized in distillation. Therefore only the choicest wines are asked to stand the test for Hennessy's Three-star.

Claret is the liquor for boys' port for men; but he who aspires to be a hero must drink brandy.—Dr. Johnson.

St. Patrick and Whisky

Some people hope that St. Patrick was English, others say he was Welsh. But the Irish say he taught them how to make whisky—so it certainly seems that he must have been a Scot. Therefore it is exceedingly likely that he will look with a benevolent eye on those who lower a few Scotch whiskies in his honour upon St. Patrick's Day. Indeed one might say that it would be a most graceful compliment to him to do so.

A Mr. Bailey once wrote a Book of Sports in which among other things he laid down that wine and brandy had a tendency to make a man fall on his side, cider and perry to make him fall on his back, while whisky made him fall forward. Whisky appears to be, therefore, the only drink which will advance a man—be it only on all fours. Admittedly, a dismal scientist, speaking before the Spirits Committee of 1891, did interpret Mr. Bailey's interesting discovery as meaning that whisky affected the anterior part of the middle lobe of the cerebellum. It is promised, however, that Harvey's Special Scotch Whisky will draw the Thin Red Line at doing that, and it is hoped that on the strength of this promise connoisseurs of St. Patrick's brew will go boldly forward on March 17.

Beer, Glorious Beer

No great prophet is needed to foretell that beer will be a popular drink upon St. Patrick's Day, and as the foaming glass is quaffed to Ireland's patron saint it will be fitting to couple silently with his name that of good Dean Nowell of St. Paul's who discovered bottled beer in the reign of Bloody Mary. A stately string of churchmen walks through the history of the greater wines, and even Britain's beer has its dean.

The 17th century Worthies of England relates that the Dean was one day angling in the Thames, having placed in an appropriate spot his bottle of beer which he had filled that morning. Word being brought to him that Bishop Bonner was on his track with a view to tying him to a stake, the Dean threw down his rod and fled. Later, when Bonner's day was done, Dean Nowell returned to his fishing and had a look at his bottle of beer. He "found that it had turned into a species of gun—it exploded its contents when touched." The Dean unbosomed himself of his great discovery to his clerical friends, and the clergy let it out gradually to the laity.

It should be a matter of deep satisfaction to all loyal Shanghailanders that we are able to drink our own home-made beer. Among other things the fact is an indirect compliment to the water of our Whangpoo. A satisfactory supply of water is a matter of great importance to the brewers — though (and this seems ungenerous) water is always called "liquor" in a brewery. Don't make an enemy of a brewer — he might take his oath at some inconvenient time that he had seen you the worse for "liquor."

You're Safe With the French

France guards the reputation of her wines as fiercely as ever a hero of romance guarded the fair fame of his mistress. This is especially so when champagne is concerned.

The Champagne district has definitely marked boundaries, within which are included only those vineyards which fulfil the conditions laid down by the law. Only wine grown, bottled and rendered sparkling within these boundaries has the right to the name of "Champagne." At vintage time the crop of each vineyard within the official district is verified by the authorities, and from that moment onwards the wine is never lost sight of by them until it either reaches the French consumer or exported.

The bottles of champagne thus accounted for, and these bottles only, must bear the word "Champagne" upon the label; this word must also figure on that part of the cork which is inside the neck of the bottle and on all packing cases or baskets. The golden rule, therefore, in buying champagne is—Make Sure the Bottles Come from France.

Having bought your champagne, treat it with the respect due to a superb but delicate wine. It ought to be kept at a temperature of about 50° to 55° Fahr. The bottles should always lie horizontally. If they are kept too long upright the cork will dry up little by little, which may cause flatness and other troubles. Champagne must always be poured direct from the bottle into the glass—to do otherwise would result in a serious loss of its best qualities. It should be cooled sometime in advance by placing the bottle in an ice pail, but ice should never be put into the glass. A slight mist on the outside of the glass will indicate that the temperature is right.

"Little Appetizers" and Liqueurs

Make the beginning and the ending happy and the middle will take care of itself. Apéritifs are the "small chow" and liqueurs the chocolates in the world of pleasant drinks. Make them attractive and your celebration will please your feminine guests at any rate.

It is interesting to know a little bit about your drinks. Vermouth, for instance, is a fortified white wine in which aromatic and tonic materials are macerated. French vermouth is dry, Italian is sweet. Gins are of two distinct types—the Dutch (Hollands) and the British, with numerous sub-varieties. "Old Tom" signifies unsweetened gin—the origin of the term is rather obscure, one school of thought attributing it to the tradition that a cat fell into a gin vat, with a result which was highly esteemed. But the distillers with a right to the Cat Brand trade mark, adopted in 1849, say that "Old Tom" was "old Thomas Chamberlain of Hodge's Distillery."

Liqueur is the general term applied to perfumed or flavoured spirits sweetened with sugar. Cointreau, chartreuse, bénédictine—here again the French excel in their preparation. Very fine wines, brandies or whiskies may also be liqueur." The secret of the making of chartreuse is most jealously guarded by the Carthusian monks who left France for Tarrogona in Spain in 1904. Green chartreuse contains about 57 per cent. of alcohol, yellow chartreuse about 43 per cent. Bénédictine was made at Fécamp by the monks some say as far back as 1510. Since the Revolution a secular company has carried it on—but the D. O. M. (Deo Optimo Maximo) on the bottles keeps the monks' memory green.

The best curaçao is made in Amsterdam with the peel of a very rare orange which grows in the island of Curaçao and falls to the ground unripe. The Netherlands distillers keep their process a secret—though the French say they know what it is. "Grand Marnier" is a lighter variety of Curaçoa made with fine brandy.

AUSTRIA'S CRISIS

Whether Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg has been wise or unwise in his decision to hold a plebiscite on Sunday, for the people of Austria to decide whether they want a "free and German independent and Social Christian and united Austria, for peace and work and for the equality of all who profess their faith in the people and the fatherland," time alone can show. That it is a bold decision the developments of the past few weeks amply demonstrate, and it is clear, from what is now happening, that no matter how far Dr. von Schuschnigg went in his concessions to Herr Hitler during the Berchtesgaden conversation, there are still limits as to how much further he will go. Those limits appear to be reached, and Dr. von Schuschnigg, by deciding upon the plebiscite, has clearly shown that he will go no further without a definite mandate from the nation. As it stands the plebiscite amounts to a trial of strength between the Austrian Nazis and the existing government. It is not certain whether the Austrian Nazis will accept the challenge which has now been made, for though they have been advised not to register their votes, a proviso is added indicating the possibility that even at the eleventh hour instructions to vote may be given. The issue is a straight, clear cut one—independence or anschluss? Dr. von Schuschnigg has made this perfectly plain in his broadcast on the subject. "Threats," he said, "which can be connected with the Berchtesgaden agreement, cannot intimidate me. The agreement will be carried out, but not an iota more. I do not want Austria to build up the Fatherland idea on a personal basis or a personal government. For years we have been challenged to hold a plebiscite. Now the moment has come to prove that we are ready to make a stand for independence. I stand or fall by the success of the Austrian people on Sunday." There can be no doubt as to what the Chancellor means. He has been pushed to the limit of the concessions he was prepared to make, and by a very adroit move places the responsibility for the future of Austria on the shoulders of the people themselves. That he has moved swiftly has had the effect of taking the Nazi party completely by surprise, and has thereby roused their resentment to fever pitch.

He has reached his decision along the lines of the democratic principle that in the government of a state the will of the majority must prevail. He believes, and there are many who think likewise, that the majority of the inhabitants of Austria still desire a democratic government and are not prepared to submit to control by a minority. But the plebiscite may not prove quite the trial of strength he would like it to be, should the Nazis persist in their refusal to take part. That refusal need not necessarily vitiate the whole proceedings, for if a substantial majority of the people register their votes in support of Dr. von Schuschnigg's policy the world at large will be convinced that, vociferous as it may be, the Austrian Nazi party is still the small tail seeking to wag a somewhat large dog. That may account for the Nazi refusal to participate in the voting, for if they did numerical comparisons might clearly prove the real validity of the Nazi claims to take some part in the government of the country. It is believed that Herr Inquart has demanded postponement of the plebiscite to allow time for Nazi propaganda, and the granting of two more Cabinet posts to his party. Dr. von Schuschnigg may decide to grant neither of these demands. On the face of it it would seem that he would be well within his constitutional rights in doing so, and, if it is claimed that the short notice he has given for putting his policy to the test of public opinion has placed the Nazis at a disadvantage, he can quite correctly counter with the statement that the amount of outside pressure to which he has been subjected for the past few months has also amounted to a disadvantage which he has every right to ask of the people shall be offset by a clear mandate in the shortest time possible.

The reaction of the European capitals to these latest developments is interesting. Berlin is critical and opinion there is even now quite prepared to believe that the results of the plebiscite have already been "cooked." Italian opinion seems to be that Dr. von Schuschnigg has chosen the only possible course for clarifying the situation, and one that is in keeping with the Austrian constitution. France is very considerably concerned over the whole matter, and if, as is reported by Havas, Herr von Ribbentrop has refused to give assurances that the Reich will not interfere in Austrian affairs, in reply to a British démarche on the subject, then French uneasiness will undoubtedly be shared by Britain. Herr von Ribbentrop is reported to have stated that the Reich would be compelled to take measures if German blood were shed. The rioting in Vienna and elsewhere in Austria emphasizes, in view of that report, the seriousness of the situation, for some bloodshed seems inevitable. Naturally the greatest pressure will be brought to bear on Germany should there be any indication of following the policy suggested by its Foreign Minister in his reply to the British démarche, but even that may not prevent the peace of Central Europe being gravely disturbed. In the circumstances it is unfortunate that Herr Inquart should hold office as Minister of Public Security. It has been suggested that he might resign in view of the delicateness of his position. That would undoubtedly relieve him of much criticism should the arrangements made by his department fail to maintain peace, and lead towards the much feared civil war. It is not to be believed at the moment that Germany would intervene merely because of rioting in Austria, but it is to be inferred that if civil war did eventuate, she would do so to ensure final victory for the Austrian Nazi minority. Therein lies the seriousness of the situation. Should Dr. von Schuschnigg fail to maintain order in Austria, should warfare break out between the Nazis and their opponents the danger of the anschluss becoming un fait accompli by force of arms will be rendered all the greater. It is for these reasons that the Austrian Chancellor has either done a very wise thing—and that can only be if he can carry out his plebiscite in peace—or a very unwise one. It may be that he found the situation more serious than appeared from news reports earlier in the week. In that event this latest development may arise from counsels of desperation, though the rapidity with which the necessary propaganda was brought into action by the Government, suggests that he had been preparing for some such coup for quite a while past.

CHINA'S CURRENCY

Since November 4, 1935, the date upon which China's currency reform movement came into force, there has always been doubt felt in one quarter or another as to whether the Chinese Government would be able to maintain the rate of 1/2¼ and 29½. However in spite of adverse trade balances—which in recent years were being progressively reduced—and the effects of internal strife, domestic troubles, etc., the rate has remained unshaken. The present hostilities have added pressure on the reserves of currency. An extensive movement was made to buy foreign currencies by all concerned, and it is estimated that between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000, Chinese money, were converted into sterling or U.S. currency. The cover for this demand was met partly by sales of the Central Bank to local banks at 1/2¼ and partly by export paper, while a certain amount of resales of purchases unable to be taken up, helped to stem the one-way operations. Other expedients were resorted to, such as the "gentleman's agreement" on the part of foreign banks with the Chinese Government not to sell to speculators, and not to sell forward exchange, to get as much cover as possible and to apply as little pressure upon the Central Bank as possible for cover against their own sales to meet merchants' demands or requirements. The Chinese Government issued regulations governing current accounts and Wei-wah. The former were restricted to withdrawals on a percentage basis, and the latter eventually became cash on the payment of a fee which has ranged from 5 per cent. to ¾ of one per cent. The amount of Wei-wah in circulation is unknown. The interest due last December on internal loans was paid in Wei-wah and was rapidly changed into currency. This tended to ease the stringency of the money market and, accordingly, to reduce the differences between cash quotations for foreign currencies and forward quotations. This phenomenon imparted a tone of confidence in local currency. The creation of a Reserve Bank in Peiping, and the policy there of replacing Central Bank reserve notes by a new issue, has caused renewed misgivings concerning local Chinese currency. Fears are being expressed on the part of those who were always somewhat sceptical of China's ability to maintain present levels of exchange due to the possibility of these Central Bank's northern notes appearing on the market here for the purpose of conversion into foreign currencies. The amount it said to approximate $40,000,000. This fact should give rise to no very great concern. The Chinese Government's foreign reserves are reputed to be very considerable, and the fact seems to be overlooked that the Chinese Government is in a very much better position to deliver the foreign currencies contracted for than, in many cases, are the buyers able to take delivery. Since November 4, 1935, all forward buyers of exchange have been forced to resell at a loss such exchange as they were unable to take up.

SCHOLARS CARRIED ON

When hostilities broke out last August, by no means the least concerned were some thirty or forty boys from Shanghai Municipal foreign schools who had entered for the Senior Cambridge Examination and who were about to begin the final stage of their preparations. On that examination, their whole career might well depend; but re-opening of school on September 6, for the most critical term of all, was impossible. However, informal classes were started, for those pupils who happened to be in Shanghai at the time, in the Committee Room of the Y.M.C.A. There, studies were pursued, almost without equipment, and were all too frequently interrupted by the crashing of bombs on the North Station. These classes were transferred, early in November, to the American School building, which was then housing four complete schools at once. For a fortnight, the boys had to contend not only with over-crowding, but also with the nerve-wracking distraction of power-dives, bombs and heavy artillery, first over Hungjao, then Nantao. They had three short weeks of peace before their ordeal. By this time, twenty seven candidates had returned to Shanghai: some had only been back since the middle of October. All the twenty seven sat the examination. And the result? Twenty six passed—eighteen with London Matriculation exemption. This would have been an excellent result even in normal times, seeing that in England and Wales three out of ten entrants fail this test: with a furious war raging all round the city, it should be credited to the Shanghai boy as an heroic achievement. Incidentally, a number of these successful candidates have already been placed in promising positions with leading Shanghai firms; others have commenced courses in professional or technical training, either here or abroad. Yet who, last September, would have blamed these boys, had they thrown in their hands and said, "It can't be done?"

THE FEMININE SPIRIT

In the crisis through which Shanghai is passing the woman's part is important and it is with genuine pleasure that in the problems facing Shanghai in the future the feminine voice will be heard. Speaking at the annual meeting of the British Women's Association yesterday, Mrs. J. S. Whitney, Acting Chairman, told the story of British women since the beginning of the crisis with an inspiring reference to the "carry on" spirit which makes light of obstacles and should be cheering to the menfolk. There was general evacuation on official advice to start with although a few women remained behind, but the spirit of calm acceptance of the command to disrupt family life, and the confrontation with vastly changed conditions on their return find no doleful circumstances in the opinion of Mrs. Whitney. "Don't be depressed by circumstances as they appear at present," she said. "Shanghai resembles the phœnix in its power of rising from its own ashes. It has done it before and will do it again." These remarks are symptomatic of the optimism with which Shanghai foreigners are facing the future and coming from the female side they should carry unusual weight. In spite of unprecedented difficulties, Shanghai is doing its best to recover lost ground and while the spirit is continued there will be the ability to take the blow on the chin and still smile. British and other women have played a great part during these difficulties, and their work in relief and hospital activities constitutes a bright and encouraging chapter in a long narrative of gloom. The pride which Mrs. Whitney manifested in the record of the Association of which she was Acting President during this period is one to which everybody will add their tribute.

SHERIFF A. J. Louttit Laing told several legal stories to Aberdeen Rotarians at a recent luncheon.

Law and justice, he said, recalled a story which illustrated the conviction that the two words might not always be synonymous. In a great hurry one morning, the late Lord Coleridge hailed a cab and told the cabman to drive to the Courts of Justice.

"Where are they?" asked the cabby.

"What," observed Lord Coleridge, "you a London cabman, and you don't know where the Law Courts are!"

The native was puzzled and scratched his head for inspiration, saying, "Well, stranger, if I was going to Knoxville I think I would go up this here holler until I came to an old wood road; no, if I was going to Knoxville, I'd go down the valley and then go up the first right-hand branch. No, you couldn't get through there. To tell the truth, stranger, if I was going to Knoxville I wouldn't start from here."

When the spoils are finally divided the family is ditto.

Something has been done, or is being done, to prevent a vindictive husband leaving a wife penniless, and, I reckon, a lot of waste, worry and injustice would be avoided if wills were abolished, leaving a fair settlement to be arranged by the State.—"Herald."

BRITISH ARMY REORGANIZATION EXPLAINED IN COMMONS

War Secretary Details Aims and Progress Made: More Men Trying to Join Up Than Required

MECHANIZATION BRINGS RADICAL CHANGES

London, Mar. 11.

IMPORTANT changes as well as a large number of improvements affecting service conditions of all ranks in the British Army were announced by Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for War, in introducing the Army Estimates in the House of Commons yesterday. The Estimates total £85,357,000, representing an increase of £22,237,000 compared with last year.

From the troops raised at home under the voluntary system, Mr. Hore-Belisha declared, there could be mobilized in an emergency over 500,000 soldiers for action in various fields of Imperial responsibility. More men, he said, were trying to join the British Army than required. They were applying at the rate of nearly 60,000 a year. Such difficulties as confronted the Government, the War Secretary declared, were not of manpower but of its correct organization.

The House listened attentively to the Minister's disclosure of a variety of proposals, ranging from those affecting higher strategy to those relating to the smallest details of a soldier's daily routine.

These included:

Inter-departmental re-examination of the Cardwell system;
Reorganization and mechanization;
Reorganization of artillery;
Enlargement of the numbers and responsibilities of warrant officers;
Reconsideration of factors determining the service conditions of officers;
Introduction of enlistment for long-term service, in addition to short term as at present, designed to supplement the measures already taken to make the army a career for those who wish to adopt it;
Modernization of barracks and improved living conditions for soldiers; and
Increased financial benefits, in the way both of family allowances and increments of pay, after periods of completed service.

Mr. Hore-Belisha recalled the historical army reorganizations associated with the names of Viscount Cardwell and Lord Haldane, and spoke of the new factors introduced by submarines and, above all, aircraft.

Greater Flexibility Needed

He showed how the fact that the number of British Army units to be stationed in India was predetermined had produced an element of rigidity in the strategical distribution of units at home and abroad, and also affected the organization of the rest of the army and the terms of service and the amenities of the soldier.

This led up to an announcement that the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was prepared to initiate inter-departmental discussions with a view to an objective re-examination of the questions involved, which had already been the subject of discussion between India and the War Office.

After a discussion of the role of the Army, firstly, in home defence—in which ground defences against air attack are now first in priority and, secondly, in the discharge of overseas commitments for the defence of British territories and bases, the Minister came to its third role as a strategic reserve and, under this head, its use in co-operation in the defence of territories of allies.

Increased Defence Power

Speaking of Lord Haldane's creation of an expeditionary force, Mr. Hore-Belisha observed that assumptions of the past often tempted one to leave out of account later developments and modifications.

Emphasizing the increase in the power of defence, which was the principal development of recent years and an illustration of which he referred to "the masterly and formidable defences of the Maginot Line, constructed with all the ingenuity and thoroughness of a great military nation," he stated that a mere description, such as had been given, of the role of the British Army emphasised how the factors in the situation had altered since 1914.

He disclosed how, under the stress of the new methods of warfare, a fresh allocation of Great Britain's forces was called for, primarily affecting, on the one hand, their distribution and, on the other, their responsibilities at home.

The extent to which British might be required or expected to send, or have available, assistance for an ally and what form it should take must be related to these considerations.

It must be remembered that support on land was not the only support Britain could offer.

Artillery Reorganization

There followed an account of the proposed reorganization of divisions and of artillery with the aim of providing a thoroughly flexible organization and, as regards artillery, greater tactical flexibility and increased facility for control of fire.

There were, the Minister stated, to be two types of division and variations within types.

The first type motorized division based on the light machine-gun when used for internal security operations, such as the present operations in Palestine, might consist of six battalions, with necessary ancillary troops for maintenance and communications, but when used for war might consist of nine battalions supported by artillery and other arms, according to the need. These battalions would each possess 50 Bren guns, of which a proportion would be borne in armoured carriers, so that they would, in fact, be light machine-gun battalions.

Tanks and Anti-Tank Units

The second type would be mechanized armoured division based on the tank.

The proportion of heavy machine-gun battalions would be kept as a corps of troops—one per division—the rest being converted to light machine-gun battalions to form the nucleus of motorized divisions.

The anti-tank gun, formerly handled by heavy machine-gun battalions, would in future be manned by divisional artillery, and the Minister proceeded to announce the reorganization of the field artillery of the regular army on the basis of 12-gun fire units instead of six implying an organization comprising a brigade headquarters and two fire units each of three four-gun batteries.

The total number of guns normally supporting a division would not be affected, but with fewer personnel and more centralized control fire power would be better concentrated.

German Foreign Minister Learns Britain's Views

Herr von Ribbentrop Refuses Assurance on Austria

BRITISH PRESS FREEDOM FLATLY ASSERTED

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Mar. 11.

The attitude of the British Government towards the problems in Central Europe, in particular those in Austria and Czechoslovakia, is believed to have been outlined by Lord Halifax, the Foreign Secretary, in his talk yesterday with Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German Foreign Minister.

The purpose of the talk was to decide the most opportune moment to follow up earlier contacts between Lord Halifax and Sir Nevile Henderson, the British Ambassador to Germany, and Herr Hitler.

The British Government is believed to be no less anxious for a settlement of all outstanding matters with Germany than with Italy.

The German view, however, is that the question of Colonies is the only issue between the two countries.

Britain maintains that any discussion on Germany's colonial claim, in which other countries are concerned, must be linked with the wider question of European peace.—Reuter.

No Assurances on Austria

London, Mar. 10.

Refusal to give assurances that Germany would not interfere in Austria and an indication that the Reich would be compelled to take measures if "German blood" were shed there, were the highlights of to-day's conference between Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop and Lord Halifax at the Foreign Office to-day.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, Permanent Under-Secretary at the Foreign Office, and Dr. Woermann, the German Charge d'Affaires here, were present at the conference.

It is understood that in refusing to give the assurances mentioned, Herr von Ribbentrop declared that he could not be sure of the German Government's attitude until he meets the Fuehrer to-morrow evening, after his return to Berlin.

The German Foreign Minister will leave London to-morrow afternoon instead of Saturday evening as was originally planned, in order to be in Berlin before the plebiscite is held in Austria on Sunday.

British Friendship Wanted

During to-day's conference, Herr von Ribbentrop stressed the German desire to obtain British friendship, and the advantages which Britain would obtain if she became disinterested in Central Europe.

It is also understood he asked Lord Halifax to end anti-German campaigns in the British press, but met with a firm rebuke when the British Foreign Secretary replied that the Government could not interfere with the freedom of the press.

Herr von Ribbentrop later held a conference with Sir Robert Vansittart, Diplomatic Adviser to His Majesty's Government.—Havas.

Berlin Issues Legal Claim to Colonies

Berlin, Mar. 11.

Germany to-day announced her legal claim to the restoration of her former colonies in an exchange of Notes with the Union of South Africa, the semi-official "Deutsches Nachrichten Bureau" officially reported. The Notes, the news agency said, concerned the legal status of South-west Africa. The exchange of Notes, it was said, was the result of negotiations between the two Governments on the re-interpretation of the legal situation.—United Press.

FASCIST COUNCIL ADJOURNS

Italian Leaders Hear Reports on Foreign Relations

Rome, Mar. 11.

After hearing a complete exposition of the international situation from Count Ciano, the Foreign Minister, the Fascist Grand Council, convened at 9 o'clock last night, has been adjourned until 10 o'clock to-night.

The discussions of the Council, it is presumed, included the progress of the Anglo-Italian talks and the Italian attitude towards recent events in Austria.

The almost entire absence of press comment on the Austrian developments has left the Italian public bewildered regarding the Italian policy towards Nazi developments in that country.—Reuter.

M. Leon Blum Faces Task of Cabinet-Making

Radicals Firmly Oppose Entry of Communists

FRANC CHANGE WEAK

National Government Is Seen Being Prepared

Paris, Mar. 11.

M. Leon Blum, who headed the first Popular Front Government in France, has begun consultations to form a new Cabinet.

He is expected to be bitterly opposed by the Centre and Right parties in the Chamber of Deputies and also by most Senators, especially if he has to ask for the same plenary powers which M. Chautemps required.

M. Blum's consultations are expected to last two days. He has already interviewed M. Eduard Daladier, without whose support a Socialist government would be impossible, but the Radicals are unlikely to allow Communists in the Cabinet.

Many Socialists believe M. Blum is being manoeuvred so that he must form a purely Socialist government which will be rapidly overthrown to make way for a National Government.

The situation at present is too bewildering for any reasonable forecast of the outcome.—Reuter.

Francs Weaken in London

London, Mar. 11.

Resignation of M. Camille Chautemps' Government yesterday did not surprise the City where, prior to news of it, there was another flurry in the franc.

Moderate continental offerings found the market almost without buyers so that the spot rate rapidly fell to 159.62, compared with overnight closing of 157.31. Eventually, support by the Control ended the day at 158.75.

It was remarked that, while the discount on franc for one month ahead widened in the morning to 325.0 cents discount, compared with the over-night close of 300.0 cents discount, the rate subsequently improved and closed at 212.5 cents discount. Similarly, three months' delivery opened steady at the previous night's level of 668.0 cents discount and eventually closed at 525.0 cents discount.

Some operators believe this reflects the view that, despite appearances, the franc may now follow a more settled French political outlook.—Reuter.

NEW AIR SERVICE TO HONGKONG

Agreement with Imperial Airways Concluded

London, Mar. 11.

The Air Ministry announces to-day that it is concluding a new agreement with Imperial Airways for an air service to Hongkong of two services weekly, each way, between Hongkong and Bangkok, via Udong, Hanoi and Fort Bayard. The service is to begin on March 23 when the old agreement expires.

The maximum subsidy payable to the Company in one year is £26,000, to which Hongkong will contribute one-sixth.

The carriage of all first-class mail, without surcharge is being considered, but it cannot be undertaken until the full services between the United Kingdom and Singapore are in operation, as provided by the Empire Agreement of June, 1927.—Reuter.

AUSTRIAN TENSION HEIGHTENS OVER PLEBISCITE ISSUE

Nazis Demand Disarming of Fatherland Front Storm Troops: Clashes in Provinces

Vienna, Mar. 11.

FEELING is running high throughout Austria following the Government's proclamation of a plebiscite on Sunday, in which the issue is virtually Austrian independence or an ultimate anschluss with Germany.

Ten persons were seriously injured in an ugly collision at Linz shortly after midnight between Nazis and members of the Fatherland Front Storm Corps, in which rifles, life-preservers and clubs were used. Nazi leaders have now issued a warning that unless the police disarm the Storm Corps, they will not be responsible for the consequences.

Disorders also broke out yesterday in Vienna, where at least eleven persons were injured, and in Graz, where thirty people were hurt.

In all principal cities troops are now guarding strategic points to preserve order.

Herr Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the recently-appointed Nazi Home Minister and Minister of Public Security, last night cancelled a broadcast he was to make. He is reported to be contemplating resigning in protest against the Government's rejection of his demands for postponement of the plebiscite and the inclusion of two more Nazis in the Cabinet.

Vigorous protests against the plebiscite are pouring into the capital from Nazi provincial centres. They are addressed to the President, Dr. Wilhelm Miklas, and Herr Seyss-Inquart, and allege that the plebiscite is unconstitutional.

Both Austrian Nazis and members of the Fatherland Front are convinced that the voting on Sunday will result in a decisive majority for Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor, even if the Nazis voted "No."

It is learned that the Nazis are contemplating various counter-plans, including:—

1. To attempt to prevent Dr. von Schuschnigg's supporters from voting on Sunday.
2. To boycott the plebiscite.
3. To continue their activities before and after Sunday as though nothing has happened.

Herr Seyss-Inquart and the Chancellor were engaged all day yesterday in negotiations, stated to be partly political and partly economic.

The talks were begun shortly after the arrival from Berlin of the German Secretary of State, Herr Keppler, the Reichfuhrer's economic adviser, who is believed to have brought a message from Herr Hitler.

Herr Seyss-Inquart is understood to have told Dr. von Schuschnigg, in referring to the Government's negotiations for the support of workers, that he could not tolerate the "Bolshevization of the Fatherland Front," and that Herr Hitler was of the same mind.

He suggested that the Nazis would demand other Government positions, and that considerable pressure would be brought to bear on the matter.

Demands made to Dr. von Schuschnigg by Herr Seyss-Inquart included postponement of the plebiscite to give time for a Nazi propaganda campaign, and two more Cabinet posts for Nazis.

Herr Keppler is understood to have pressed for the acceptance of Germany's scheme of economic co-operation with Austria, involving an extensive scheme of barter of Austrian agricultural products for German armaments and a substantial diversion of Austrian raw materials to Germany.

The Austrians have hitherto resisted this demand.

Instructions have been issued to Nazis to abstain from voting on Sunday, with the following rider; "Unless a contrary order is given on Saturday evening."—Reuter.

Innsbruck Cordon Broken

Innsbruck, Mar. 11.

Defying armed forces, 15,000 Nazis broke through the strong local police cordon here demanding the resignation of Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg. They forced their way past barbed-wire barricades and entered the inner city. Police mounted a machine-gun nest in front of the City Hall as Nazi demonstrations became wilder.—United Press.

German Ultimatum to Dr. Schuschnigg

Vienna, Mar. 11.

The Reich has forwarded an ultimatum to the Austrian Government demanding the resignation of Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg and his replacement by Herr Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the present pro-Nazi Home Minister. The ultimatum expires at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The Austrian Government had agreed to negotiate a postponement of the plebiscite, but did not satisfy the German Government. It is understood that the Italian Government has been informed of the German ultimatum.—Havas.

Reichswehr Marching

Munich, Mar. 11.

Two thousand regular troops of the Reichswehr, with light artillery, are marching towards Austria along the new superhighways while 130 lorries of the engineer corps were counted as well as 100 armed troops on motor-cycles. Horses, carts and lorries have been requisitioned at various places for military purposes.

Numerous mechanized and infantry detachments of Nazi Storm Troops were seen marching towards the Austrian border this morning. All Nazi militiamen have orders to stand by. The Austrian Consul here went to the border near Garmisch-Partenkirchen to ascertain the size of German Nazi forces massed there.—Havas.

Austrian Reserves Called

AMERICAN LEAGUE OF NATIONS DUE

Pan-American Conference in Lima to Discuss Issue

Washington, Mar. 10.

The programme for the next Pan-American Conference, which will be held in Lima, Peru, has been decided upon here. It includes (1) the creation of a Pan-American Court for International Justice, (2) the perfecting and co-ordinating of the inter-American instruments for peace, and (3) the creation of an American League of Nations.

The proposal by Colombia and the Dominican Republic regarding the creation of an American League of Nations foresees the creation of a new League which would maintain close relations and collaborate with Geneva, would recognize the jurisdiction of the World Court at the Hague, would be based on the principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of other nations and economic co-operation.

It would also provide for diplomatic, economic and financial sanctions against countries designated by the organization as aggressors, and would not recognize conquests achieved by force.—Havas.

REFUGEES ARE EJECTED QUIETLY

Several hundred refugees were ejected by the S. M. Police yesterday from the Amoy Road Gaol compound because the space was needed by the Municipal Council for storage purposes. The small huts were torn down and the refugees and their belongings were transported to another compound behind the Mixed Court building. The riot van was on hand to take care of any possible outbreak, but the removal was accomplished quietly. The refugees at the Amoy Road Gaol are being transferred in gradual stages, half of them being now gone. Another quarter of the original population at this "camp" will be moved next week.

Opposition to Emergency Bill Grows in Japan

War Minister Alleged to Be Alone in Favouring It

IMMEDIATE APPLICATION OF MEASURE FEARED

Tokyo, Mar. 11.

Opposition to the National Mobilization Bill seems to have increased following a secret session of the Lower House Committee yesterday, at which members of the Cabinet explained at length—and apparently unconvincingly—the Government's reasons for pressing the measure.

A member of the Seiyukai Party expressed the opinion to-day that only the War Minister, Gen. Gen Sugiyama, favoured the bill. He suggested that the Army had dragged the Cabinet into presenting the measure.

Opinion is now srengthening that, contrary to the Government's promises, the National Mobilization Bill will be invoked as soon as it is passed.

The Government is said to be apparently very anxious to enforce, at least, Article 20, which deals with press censorship and allows the Government to issue necessary orders for the restriction or pohibition of matters printed in newspapers or other publications.—Reuter.

"Incident" Defined

Tokyo, Mar. 11.

The China Incident corresponds to the "quasi-war incident" mentioned in Article 1 of the National General Mobilization Bill, Mr. Suehiko Shiono, Justice Minister, told the Lower House Committee to-day. He said the bill was not invokable in the China Incident unless the law was enacted and the necessary Imperial ordinance was promulgated.—Domei.

BATTLE RESUMES IN NORTH OF MADRID

Guadarrama Mountains Scene of Flare-Up

Madrid, Mar. 11.

Brilliant spring sunshine and melting snows brought a flare-up yesterday in the Guadarrama Mountains, which separate Madrid and Segovia.

Nationalists launched a sudden attack which surprised Republican troops and allowed quick capture of the Reventon Pass, 7,000 feet high, and the Claveles Peak, 15 miles east of Segovia, while later Malagosto Pass was also occupied.

Both Reventon Pass and the Claveles Peak are claimed to have been recaptured by the Republicans before the end of the day in a strong counter-attack.—Reuter.

Nationalist troops, leaving ruined Belchite behind them, swept to the south and east in pursuit of retreating Republicans to-day.

A United Press correspondent entered Belchite after the Nationalists to find the principal buildings destroyed and few houses intact after the devastating artillery barrage of the last two days. Dead and wounded littered the streets.—United Press.

S. M. C. BUDGET AND TAXATION FOR THIS YEAR

Deficit of $2,357,328.56 For 1937

TAXATION FOR 1938

Council Endorses Finance Committee's Report

The Treasurer and Controller of the Shanghai Municipal Council submitted to a meeting of the Finance Committee held on March 7 the Budget for 1938 and his report thereon. The proposed schedule of rates, taxes, dues and fees for 1938 were also submitted to the meeting.

Ordinary Income and Expenditure

The Treasurer & Controller stated that the estimated Ordinary Expenditure for 1938 covering all Departments and Services under the General Section of the Budget amounted to $22,757,330, and Education requirements were represented by a sum of $1,921,130. The total estimated Ordinary Expenditure under General and Education, therefore, amounted to $24,678,460, a reduction of $1,528,840 as compared with the corresponding figures for 1937.

The estimated Ordinary Income from all sources during 1938 amounted to $22,026,680, which was $1,824,120 less than the comparative figure for 1937.

The shortage on the Ordinary Budget, i.e. the difference between Income of $22,026,680 and expenditure of $24,678,460, amounted to $2,651,780, and it was proposed to carry this adverse balance to Extraordinary Account pending liquidation through future Ordinary Budgets or by other financing measures.

Extraordinary Income and Expenditure

Extraordinary Income was estimated at $14,591,300 as compared with $24,388,000 for the previous year. Provision was included for the transfer from Loan Suspense Account of an amount of $2,500,000, as cover for the estimated deficit on the Ordinary Budget for 1938. Sales of Surplus Land were allowed for at $100,000 and Miscellaneous Receipts at $20,000. The amount required for transfer to the Extraordinary Budget—Education was inserted at $28,700, which was $34,910 less than the corresponding figure for 1937. The amount to be raised by debentures or other temporary measure was included at $12,000,000, as compared with $12,500,000 authorized for 1937.

The classified list of items recommended for inclusion by various Committees concerned were contained in the Draft Budget, and showed a total estimated Extraordinary Expenditure of $14,484,910. A sum of $379,000 was provided for the Annual Sinking Fund Instalment in respect to the Loan of 1926, and an appropriation had been inserted for repayment of temporary borrowings. Provision was also included for the Capital requirements of the Pension Fund, for the transfer of the deficit on the Ordinary Budget, and for estimated requirements under Emergency Measures.

The deficit carried forward from 1937 was $6,613,300, as compared with $4,379,400 from 1936.

As a result of the foregoing measures, the Estimates of Extraordinary Income and Expenditure showed a final surplus of $106,390.

Financial Results for 1937

The accounts for 1937 disclosed a total deficit under Ordinary Budget of $2,357,328.56, made up as to $2,174,768.65 under "General" and $182,559.91 under "Education." This amount of $2,357,328.56 compared with an estimated deficit of $1,245,220 which was arrived at after allowing for the carrying forward into 1937 of the deficit of $738,720 from the preceding year, and for a transfer of $1,850,000 from General Reserve. Without these transactions the net deficit on 1937 account would have amounted to approximately $3,468,610.

The deficit referred to above was attributable to the loss of revenue occasioned by the emergency and it was proposed to carry the adverse balance to a special account under Extraordinary Expenditure, pending liquidation in due course through future Ordinary Budgets or by other financing measures. It was proposed to earmark a sufficient proportion of Reserve Funds to cover this contingency.

The Chairman congratulated the Treasurer and Controller on the Budget which had been submitted. Asked how the actual expenditure for 1937 compared with the estimated expenditure, the Treasurer & Controller informed members that the shortage on estimated Income in 1937 was approximately 19 lakhs and the decrease on estimated expenditure in 1937 was $1,032,000. There was a deficit in the Education Budget of $182,000. This deficit was entirely attributable to the fact that whilst the schools were closed and fees were lacking overhead charges continued.

The Treasurer and Controller informed members that the effective Budget deficit for 1937 was approximately $2,350,000 and that for the current year it is estimated at approximately $2,650,000, i.e., a difference of no more than $300,000.

Members of the Finance Committee unanimously recommended that the Budget for 1938, as submitted by the Treasurer and Controller, be adopted.

The Council on March 9 adopted the recommendation of the Committee.

S. M. C. Taxation

The proposed schedule of rates, taxes, dues and fees for 1938 was submitted to a meeting of the Finance Committee on March 7. In this connection the Treasurer and Controller reported that no reference had been made in the proposed schedule to the imposition of a 10 per cent. surcharge on all licence and permit fees, such as had been in operation in the French Concession since January 1, 1938. He observed that this question received consideration by the Finance Committee at its meeting on December 24, 1937, when it was recommended that the Surtax could not legally be imposed until the authority of the Ratepayers had first been obtained.

BRITISH WOMEN'S PART IN SHANGHAI CRISIS

Mrs. J. S. Whitney Describes Activities at Annual Meeting of B.W.A.

THE part played by the British Women's Association in the Shanghai crisis last year and the many problems connected with it formed the principal theme of the speech of Mrs. J. S. Whitney, acting Chairman, at the annual meeting of the Association held at 12 The Bund yesterday afternoon. Among those present was Mrs. Herbert Phillips, wife of H.M. Consul-General, who arrived in Shanghai on Monday but immediately consented to become Hon. President in order to attend.

Mrs. Whitney said the executive committee met for the last time before the summer recess on June 23 and members made their own plans for the holidays, those leaving before August 13 being among the fortunate. "You all know what happened on that day and the day following—they will remain occasions never to be forgotten in the mind of any person who was in this tormented city. The British authorities decided to take the step of evacuating the vast majority of British women and children, and between August 17 and August 24, about 3,500 had been taken away. Among those who were obliged to leave Shanghai were our Acting Chairman at that time, Mrs. Brooke, and our Secretary, Mrs. Colter. Before leaving on August 25 Mrs. Brooke had ascertained that I should be prepared to carry on and had notified the Consulate of this fact. The great majority of the Executive Board were either away from Shanghai or compelled to leave.

"Under the exceptional circumstances obtaining on the Bund, the rooms at Headquarters were closed on August 16, for some days. We were not alone in this, since the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank removed their banking operations out West in common with most other banks.

Rooms Reopened

On September 4, as Acting Chairman, I decided to re-open the rooms, and with temporary closures, when hostilities became too intense, they remained open for those few to whom they could be of service. In this connection, I would like to refer with gratitude to the splendid help of Mrs. A. C. Godby during those uncertain days."

On September 8, an emergency committee of seven met at Headquarters to discuss relief work, and at this meeting Mrs. J. C. Wynnes was appointed acting vice chairman. This Committee felt that any large gathering of women at Headquarters would be most unwise and constitute a source of additional anxiety to the authorities, and for this reason it was decided to discourage any considerable gathering there. It was felt, further, with regard to relief work that in view of the fact that, with the vast number of British women and children who had left Shanghai, practically all the needy British people had also gone, it would be a useless work for the Association to form a small and circumscribed organization of its own. A notice was published asking British women willing to help in any work which might become necessary to send in their names and addresses. Thirty-two women answered this notice during the course of the next week, and, of these, 20 were members of the Association. Remembering normal membership was about one thousand, this would give some idea of the extent to which ranks were depleted.

Relief Co-ordination

On September 29, at the initiative of the Association, a meeting of combined charitable societies was convened with the idea of co-ordinating relief among organizations working for foreign refugees and foreign victims of distress. What is now known as the Committee of Associated Foreign Charities of Shanghai under the chairmanship of Dean Trivett was the eventual outcome of this initial meeting. This was a time if ever there was one, when co-operation had to be the watchword, and the Emergency Committee maintained a close liaison with the King's Daughters' Society, the Salvation Army and other kindred societies.

Throughout the entire hostilities, British women were working, notably through the Social Service Board and the Hospital Aid Department for refugees. Foreign and Chinese, and for hospitals, and they were co-operating with the societies mentioned above in the splendid work these bodies were doing. Further fine work was being performed by British women in supplying comforts to the British troops and in assisting at the British Forces Recreation Centre.

On October 1, Mrs. Whitney was asked to serve on the British Unemployment Fund Committee, and on November 12, to serve on the Central Executive Committee of the British Fund for Relief in China—sometimes known as the Lord Mayor's Fund. On October 18, the Secretary, Mrs. Colter, took the first opportunity presented to her and returned from Hongkong, and during the latter half of October more and more British women returned to Shanghai. During her stay in Hongkong, Mrs. Colter, helped in the camps which were formed there for refugees from Shanghai. She was able to be of considerable help to the Refugee Committee in registering those who were obliged to remain in the camps, and to the welfare committee.

"Work and More Work"

Mrs. Whitney added: "The keynote of the Association since the commencement of the undeclared Sino-Japanese war has been work and more work, with, in the face of the need around us, no heart for play. The capacity for work shown by the Association has been admirable. With the return of most of our members in November, working parties were formed, by the Gardening Section and the Needlecraft Section, in addition to those already functioning under the Hospital Aid Department. Many articles have been made and distributed for needy persons, foreign and Chinese."

The speaker then went on to describe in detail activities during the year, relations of the B.W.A. with other community associations and other spheres of work making special mention of the fact that since December the Joint Committee members have been studying food problems and various aspects of relief work, notably that carried out by the Shanghai International Red Cross for whom Mrs. Whitney made the appeal to members to familiarize themselves with the problems handled by this body.

In connection with the Social Service Board, Mrs. Whitney said its existence had been of great assistance to the authorities, and also to the British Fund for Relief in China. This fund, though primarily created to assist destitute Chinese, had to consider additional needs among British hospitals in China and British and international sufferers and the committee formed in Shanghai was making special efforts through British national societies to help British cases of distress through the hostilities. Mrs. Whitney said, adding: "Destitute cases have been and are being help by the fund, as the report of the Social Service Board will testify. I am not now speaking for this class, who, we think, are being fully cared for, but of an entirely different class—I refer to the type of person who would not himself care to make his need known, and I would ask that any person here who has knowledge of British people in distress as a result of the recent upheaval should make this known to us. The distributors of the fund are anxious that such cases should not remain unassisted, and it is important to remember that help given now will probably be more useful than the same help later on."

More Members Needed

In regard to membership, Mrs. Whitney said the number up-to-date was 770 Shanghai members and 210 outport members but the need for increased membership was greater now than ever before owing to loss of so many old members as a result of conditions. She added that the majority of the new members were present at the meeting.

Mrs. Whitney proceeded to give a short summary of section reports and ended her speech on a ringing note after thanking individually Mrs. J. T. W. Brooke and Mrs. J. C. Wynnes. "It has been my privilege," she said, "to work for the Association and I have had the happiness of working with a splendid band of helpers. As a last word, I would say to you all—Don't be depressed by circumstances as they appear at present. Shanghai resembles the phoenix in its power of rising from its own ashes. It has done it before and it will do it again. You are living among a people whose capacity for making something out of almost nothing has been demonstrated over thousands of years. This and Shanghai's geographical position will always ensure for it a unique place among the world's great ports. The Association, itself, has risen to this occasion magnificently; may it continue to minister to our own people and extend its influence in the community."

NAT. CHILD WELFARE ASSOCIATION

Useful Work Done for Famine and War Relief

CHILDREN'S CAMPS SET UP FOR DESTITUTE

The National Child Welfare Association of China, during the year under review, exerted its utmost efforts to relieve the stranded children under the sway of famine, war and other forms of misfortune. The relief work might be regarded to be the most important since the inauguration of the Association in 1928.

Camps for Children

During the earlier part of the year, the Association took an active part in relieving famine-stricken children in Honan, Szechuen, Kansu and Shensi. In response to an appeal, our Association sent Mr. T. S. Chen, Associate General Secretary, to Szechuen, Kansu, Shensi and Honan to consult with local authorities and voluntary organizations for the establishment of refugee camps for famine orphans. Mr. Chen made a four-and-half months' trip in the famine areas of the four provinces, and established twelve relief camps with more than 5,000 destitute children in Szechuen and 5 camps with approximately 1,000 homeless children in Kansu.

War Relief Work

The famine relief work conducted by the Association was considerably extended by the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities in August. To meet urgent needs, the Association was obliged to take upon itself the responsibility for relief of children in war-torn areas. Camps were established for refugee children and babies shortly after the outbreak of hostilities here and beside this, we have conducted educational and health work among the children in other refugee camps.

Administrative Work

In spite of the hostilities here, the Association continued its administrative work in connection with child protection, child health, child education and child study as usual.

Demonstration Centres

The Association, besides conducting its administrative work, maintains demonstration centres at Shanghai, such as the nursery for labourers' children in the Yangtszepoo districts; two institutions for orphans and stranded children; the free clinic for children in Chapei and the Sanitarium for tubercular children in Kiangwan. Since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities, the centres, however, with the exception of the child welfare home in French Concession, had to suspend operations completely.

Internationally, the Association participated during the year 1937 in the Conference on traffic in women and children in Java in February, and the International Congress for Child Welfare and Protection in Paris in July. The Association also took part in the relief work of American flood refugees in February. Besides, assistance was given towards the establishment of the China International Association for Relief and Protection of Women and Children for the purpose of carrying out the resolutions adopted by the Java Conference at the earliest opportunity.

In view of the heavy programme for relief work confronting the Association for the year 1938, we would appreciate it if members and friends of the Association would continue to give us timely counsel and generous help.

CENTRAL BROADCAST STATION OPEN

Nanking XGOA Starts Again in Chungking

NEW, MORE POWERFUL APPARATUS SOUGHT

Chungking, Mar. 11.

A new Chinese "Central Broadcasting Station" comes into operation at Chungking to-day. The apparatus from which the station was built was removed from Nanking before the Japanese entry into the town and is of German make.

The power of the new station is ten kilowatts, and its call sign "XGOA."

The station intends to transmit daily from 7.30 a.m. to 9.30 a.m., from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday programmes will also be transmitted between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., and 10 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Negotiations are at present proceeding for the erection of another more powerful broadcasting station here. Apparatus used at Daventry, in England, until the station was dismantled and later purchased by the Chinese Government, will be used for this.

The purchase was made before the outbreak of the present hostilities, it being originally intended to erect the station at Nanking. Providing the additional cost of erection is considered worth while, the construction of the second station will be begun shortly.—Reuter.

S.M.C. ORCHESTRA AND BAND

Estimate Included in This Year's Budget

At a meeting of the Finance Committee held on March 7 a member raised the question of provision in the budget for the Orchestra and Band. The Chairman stated that in 1936 the Council omitted from the budget any provision for the Orchestra and Band, but that the ratepayers resolved on its inclusion.

In 1937 the Council itself made budget provision, which was sanctioned by the ratepayers. This year the estimate had been included, the Ratepayers having so recently given a decision on the matter.

Estimate Open to Discussion

He therefore suggested that publicity be given prior to the Ratepayers Meeting to the fact that it was open to the Ratepayers to propose a Resolution that the estimate for the Orchestra and Band be deleted from the budget. Members agreed that this was the proper course to adopt.

Should any ratepayer intend to propose any amendment to the Budget in relation to this matter, it is requested that as ample notice as possible be given to the Secretary of the Council.

EFFECTS OF COLD SNAP STILL FELT

More Cases of Exposure and Starvation Reported

Effects of the cold snap during the past few days were still felt yesterday when more cases of starvation and exposure were reported.

Between noon on Thursday and yesterday afternoon, six trips were made by ambulances, conveying Chinese of the poor class to hospitals from Settlement streets. In one case, a Chinese was found dead, the cause being believed to be starvation and exposure.

At about 9 p.m. on Thursday, a Chinese of the coolie type was conveyed by ambulance from Hankow and Shantung Roads. He was found to be suffering from starvation. At 2.36 p.m. yesterday, another Chinese was sent to hospital from Canton and Hoopeh Road. He was suffering from exposure and cold. A similar case was reported at Canton and Szechuen Roads.

A Settlement ambulance was called to Burdon Road Market in the West Hongkew district shortly after 10.30 a.m. yesterday to remove the dead body of a Chinese. The man was said to have collapsed in a fit while engaged in a heated argument. The police were investigating the case.

CHILDREN HOSPITAL GIVEN COTS

Great Demand on Services from Refugee Camps

The China Child Welfare, Inc., of New York, by a generous gift has endowed thirty cots for children in the American Hospital for Refugees on Brenan Road. This contribution has enabled the hospital authorities to increase the bed capacity for children to forty. These beds are already full and frequently two small babies are placed in one cot. Others are placed on the general wards with the adult patients. The most frequent complaints of the children are those due to malnutrition. Quite a large percentage suffering from complications following measles or dysentery or typhoid fever.

Of the 240 patients in the hospital over one half of them are suffering from diseases which require special diet. The diet kitchen is one of the busiest corners in the hospital. There is not only the liquid diet but also a special diet for beri-beri patients, also a diet for typhoid patients of which there are now a large number in the hospital. These cases are brought in from the refugees camps where they are a great menace to all those who are compelled to live in such close quarters and under such primitive sanitary conditions. The hospital authorities fear these scattering cases now may be forerunners of epidemic of typhoid fever unless great precautions are taken by those in charge of the camp health service.

CHINESE REWARDED FOR BRAVERY

Apprehends Armed Robber Single-Handed

For his bravery in arresting an armed robber, single-handed Mr. Sung Tuh-tsang, a 22-year old Chinese telegraphist was presented with a pocket watch by the Settlement Police yesterday afternoon.

Deputy Commissioner S. C. Young presented the gift to the youth at the Police Headquarters in Foochow Road. Inscribed on the watch were Chinese characters expressing admiration for his wisdom and courage.

The robbery took place at 104 North Honan Road over a month ago. Mr. Sung, who happened to be visiting his relative in the house, struck an armed man in the face with his fist, knocking him onto a bed. After wresting the pistol away from the robber, he maintained his hold on the man until the arrival of the police.

As a result of this arrest, the Police arrested seven additional Chinese, who were sentenced to imprisonment terms on charges of armed robbery recently.

D.A.R. HOLD FIFTH MEETING

Mrs. Wilbur Speaks on Story of American Constitution

The Shanghai Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its fifth meeting of the season on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. M. Dunlap. Under Mrs. McCracken's efficient leadership 30 small garments were made for the use of infant refugees of the Child Welfare Group.

The simple tea was varied to include materials used by the original Daughters of Colonial times; tiny mince pies made from venison, and pumpkins which then grew wild. Sesame wafers suggested the honey-and-grains, ingeniously used for sweets in those far-off times.

After the usual ritual, salute to the flag, and ordinary matters of business, Mrs. James Macbeth, Chapter Historian, inspired a deeper interest in historical events and gave an excellent résumé of studies made by Mrs. Goodhue for the permanent archives.

Then Mrs. Wilbur gave the first half of the "Story of the Constitution," as written by her cousin, David Matteson, historian of the Sesquicentennial Committee. Excerpts were tastefully chosen, covering the period from the Albany Convention in 1754; the Stamp Act Congress of 1765; the first and second Continental Congress of 1774 and 5; the Declaration of Independence; the Articles of Confederation in 1781; The Annapolis Trade Convention of 1786; and finally the Constitutional Convention of 1787.

"So after the Revolutionary war was won, because of the character of the Commander-in-Chief and because of French aid, there came a most critical situation" following the lack of cohesion between separate state governments, when the Convention was called "To revise the Articles of Confederation in order to render the Federal Constitution adequate to the exigencies of the government and preservation of the Union."

Mrs. Dunlap added a bit of intervening history in the sparkling personality and work of Philip Mazzei, an Italian colonist, who aspired to a consular post, but was discouraged because of his alien birth, whose plantation home, "Colle" stood next to that of Thomas Jefferson in Virginia until 1933. A man of keen vision, and of solid pioneer judgment, he gave practical aid to the building up of a new country and organized a Society for the Preservation of Liberty, of 32 members, many of them the great names of early American history.

The document of proof, with its "nobly-worded declaration" was discovered in a small 8-page leaflet, only recently by "The Curator of the Rare Books Collection of the Library of Congress." Valta Parma "as he was thumbing through a series of bound political pamphlets" It is now reposing by Act of Congress in its gold case in the same gallery with the Constitution.

A short discussion followed and the meeting was adjourned.

THE corpse of a Chinese was found yesterday on the roof of a tall building located at Tamatao (Great Wharf) in Nantao, says a report to the "Standard." The body, clad in black clothes, was bound by ropes.

Japanese Ready To Assist New Regime Locally

Army Will Back Friendly Administration

GEN. HATA ON OFFICIAL STAND

The Japanese Army is ready to co-operate with a new regime in Central China, if its basic policies are friendship with Japan and war on the Kuomintang and the Communist Party.

This statement was made on Thursday afternoon by Gen. Shunroku Hata, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Expeditionary Force in Central China, in an interview with Japanese newspapermen following a military review at the Civic Center.

"The troops participating in the review," Gen. Hata said, "have exhibited such high morale and fighting spirit that they could march to any point, however remote—even Hankow."

The Army, the officer declared is "determined to go on, no matter how long the current war may last."

Rehabilitation Aim

Meanwhile, he said, the troops are preparing for future operations, maintaining order in the area under Japanese occupation, and striving to rehabilitate the war-torn districts.

"In dealing with third powers," Gen. Hata declared, "we shall follow the honorable path of justice, in accordance with the Government's foreign policy."

Friction with third powers, he added, will arise only should they attempt to interfere with the Army operations.

Gen. Hata said he would exercise caution in dealing with the problem of the International Settlement, in view of the complex inter-relationships of foreign interests within it.

"The China incident," he went on, "has reached its second stage. Therefore, the Japanese forces must make full preparations for the coming protracted hostilities."

With the return of Gen. Iwane Matsui, his predecessor, to Tokyo, it has been assumed by many, Gen. Hata said, that Japan "may take a negative attitude to the China incident."

No Change Foreseen

"There is no reason for a change in Japan's firm attitude, even after the change in the commanding officers," he declared.

Gen. Hata noted "the growth of popular sentiment in Central China in favor of the birth of a new administration. Such an overwhelming demand must be treated with consideration, rather than be suppressed."

Japan, he said, will pay equal attention to the situation in North and Central China, and "there is no justification for reports that the north would enjoy greater attention than this area."

The keynote of Central China's rehabilitation, he declared, lies in the restoration of commerce.

The Army, Gen. Hata declared, will vigorously pursue "mopping up" operations in the areas under military occupation.

THE Central Kuomintang Headquarters in Wuhan sent orders to provincial and city Kuomintang offices on March 8, requiring them to close down all national salvation associations, which have not been registered with them in three days' time, says a dispatch to the "Hwa Mei Pao." The order also enjoined the banning of meetings, which are not approved by the local party offices.

SOVIETS RETALIATE JAPANESE ACTION

Russian Schooner Captain Is Given Hard Labour

TASS DETAILS DETENTION OF SOVIET SHIPS

Moscow, Mar. 11.

Vladivostok reports that on March 1, the Japanese court at Southern Saghalin condemned to one year's hard labour, the captain of the Soviet fishing schooner Vympel which was driven by the storm to the coast of the Southern Sakhalin on November 22 last year and was detained by the Japanese authorities

The Vympel carried four men as a crew and thirteen passengers including one woman with a two-months' old baby.

Instead of rendering assistance to the shipwrecked in accordance with international usage and immediately returning them to the Soviet Union, the Japanese authorities, evidently on direct orders of the Japanese government, detained the schooner with the crew and passengers as hostages and offered to exchange them for Japanese arrested in the Soviet Union for various crimes, including espionage.

The Soviet Government categorically declined this offer and resolutely protested against the illegal actions of the Japanese authorities and demanded the liberation of the absolutely innocent Soviet citizens who were victims of shipwreck.

The Japanese government continued to detain the Soviet citizens and invariably repeated its exchange offer. These actions of the Japanese authorities roused Vladivostok where there is great indignation and an ever-growing demand of effective reprisals.

It is also noted in Vladivostok that the Soviet steamer Kuznetskstroi with 35 men as a crew and 37 passengers, including women and children, which called at Hakodate for bunkering, was detained by the Japanese on February 19 and is still being detained under various pretexts.

Soviet Protests Lodged

As Tass learns in competent circles, the Soviet Ambassador in Tokyo, M. Mikhail Slavutsky, was instructed to lodge a protest against the unprecedented sentence of hard labour imposed on the captain whose only guilt was that his ship was cast by the storm on the Japanese shore, and also against the continued unlawful detention of the ships Vympel and Kuznetskstroi with their crews and passengers.

Tass has also received confirmation that the Japanese Foreign Ministry has repeatedly addressed to the Soviet Government an offer to exchange the crew and passengers of the Vympel for spies and other criminals convicted or brought to trial in the U.S.S.R. and that the Soviet Government has resolutely declined this offer.

In reprisal for the Japanese actions, the deportation to Japan of eight Japanese whose prison sentences were recently commuted to deportation, has been held up.—Tass.

MARINE BRIGADE CHURCH

Mr. Yakimoff Guest Artist and Massed Bands

One of the finest musical programmes ever sponsored by the Fourth Marines is planned for to-morrow morning in the Grand Theatre. The Band of the Loyal Regiment, and that of the Fourth Marines, will join together as a unit for the entire concert. This programme was made possible through the courtesy of Colonel Charles F B. Price, commanding officer of the Fourth Marines, and Lieutenant-Colonel J. E. Hume, of the Loyal Regiment. The bandmasters of the two bands, will conduct the bands alternately. The combined bands will open the concert with the overture "Marinarilla" by Fucik, play the Fantasia by Tobani "Hungarian Fantasia," and also the selection "Sylvia" by Delibes. Mr. Yakimoff, baritone, is the guest artist in the concert. He will sing two baritone solos, an aria from "Prince Igor" by Borodin and Verdi's aria from "La Traviata." This excellent programme will conclude with the combined bands' rendition of the British and American National Anthems.

"Make Up Your Mind"

Preceding the concert will be the church service, which begins at ten o'clock, the Chaplain, Lieut. Frank R. Hamilton of the Fourth Marines, will conduct the service and deliver the sermon on an interesting subject, "Make Up Your Mind." An added feature in the service will be a saxophone solo, Trees" by Rasback rendered by Pfc. Milton W. Potter, of the Fourth Marines' band. Band selections in the service, under the direction of Staff-Sergeant William R. Stuart, will include the Prelude "Angel's Serenade" by Braga and Glazounow's beautiful "Meditation" for the Offertory. Mr. Willis Hathaway of the Navy Y.M.C.A. Staff will lead the singing of the hymns, with the Fourth Marines band furnishing the music.

To this outstanding worship service and concert the citizens of Shanghai of all nationalities are cordially invited.

DR. Wilhelm Furtwaengler, the celebrated orchestra conductor, has declined an invitation to conduct throughout the Salzburg Festivals because of heavy engagements elsewhere. Herr Furtwaengler will, however, conduct Beethoven's Ninth Symphony in Salzburg.

Noted New York Broker Accused Of Grand Larceny

County Grand Jury Indicts Mr. Richard Whitney

CLIENTS' SECURITIES TAKEN FROM FIRM

New York, Mar. 10.

In a special hearing of general sessions, Judge William Allen today released Mr. Richard Whitney on U.S.$10,000 bail. The recent president of the New York Stock Exchange was indicted on charges of grand larceny in an unexpected move of the County Grand Jury this morning.

The charges were the outgrowth of an investigation of the Richard Whitney Co., which Mr. Whitney headed, following its suspension several days ago by the Stock Exchange. The suspension followed Mr. Whitney's filing papers of voluntary bankruptcy.

The cashier of the Whitney Co. yesterday told investigators that Mr. Whitney had withdrawn from the company $400,000 worth of securities which were the property of his clients. Through his attorney, Mr. Whitney said he was prepared to suffer the consequences for the operation of his company. He admitted that some practices of the company were "not right."

Cashier's Statements

In additional testimony presented before the New York State Attorney-General's hearings to-day, the company cashier, Mr. Robert Rosenthal, said he had turned over clients' securities valued at $798,376 to Mr. Whitney's personal control during January.

The cashier said he had turned the securities over to Mr. Whitney without question because Mr. Whitney was a senior member of the company.

The Federal District Attorney at separate hearings meanwhile announced evidence of violation of Federal statutes and turned the case over to a Federal Grand Jury. The Federal Grand Jury also was expected to indict Mr. Whitney.

The three-quarter million dollar larceny case shocked Wall Street and other New York business circles where Mr. Whitney had been prominent. In addition to county and state investigations of the Whitney case, the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission also was conducting a separate inquiry which was begun even before the New York Stock Exchange took action against the Whitney Co. The S.E.C. investigation was kept secret, however, until after the suspension of the company from the New York exchange.—United Press.

OPIUM SEIZED ON FRENCH BUND

Three Additional Chinese Arrested by Police

Three Chinese, suspected of being concerned with the smuggling of opium into Shanghai, are being detained by the French Police on orders of the Second Special District Court.

Two of the men were arrested on the French Bund after disembarking from a steamer, and on one of them about fifty ounces of opium were seized. The third man, proprietor of a Chinese shop, was taken into custody shortly after.

The trio are believed by the French Police to be connected with the case in which over $250,000 worth of opium was seized on board the ss. Suiyang by a Customs search party alongside the French Bund about two weeks ago.

The large quantities of opium were discovered under piles of coal in the bunkers, and consequently Chinese stokers were suspected of the smuggling and arrested.

Ever since the seizure on that occasion, detectives have been posted at different wharves on the French Bund to search suspicious looking persons. The latest arrests made on the French Bund resulted from such searches.

According to the prosecution, one of the suspects had implicated the Chinese shop proprietor, Chow Kuo-shih, alias Chow Chun-liu, to be the man who had sent him to go on board a coaster to fetch a parcel, which was found to contain opium.

Tommy Farr and Max Baer Awaiting the Gong

WELSHMAN SLIGHTLY FAVOURED

Capacity Crowd Expected at Madison Square Garden

PUBLIC INTEREST GROWS MORE INTENSE

New York, Mar. 10.

Tom Farr of Wales, British Empire heavyweight champion and Max Baer, former world's heavyweight titleholder, concluded training to-day for their fifteen-round battle to-morrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Neither fighter indulged in any strenuous workout, contenting themselves with routine calisthenics to keep their muscles soft and rippling.

Baer is down to 211 pounds, his best fighting weight, and Baer at that tonnage is dangerous for anybody. Farr, it is believed, will come in at approximately 202 pounds, the weight he scaled against Joe Louis.

Odds Drop Suddenly

Odds, originally heavily in favour of the Welshman, have come tumbling down to what amounts to almost even money as a result of a sudden widespread interest in Baer.

The Californian went about his training so quietly that little was thought of him until sports writers began chronicling the change in the erstwhile Lover and commenting upon it.

Also, the fact that Farr has been batting exactly .000 in his two American fights to date—against Joe Louis and Jimmy Braddock—leads many of the smart boys along Cauliflower Row to believe that the Welshman, in common with most British heavyweights who have come to America, is unable to win when sheer defensive tactics and light left taps fail to count for much in the way of points.

Fancy-Fancy Boy

The American fight public, which has for years believed that heavyweights are supposed to fight and not dance, gives little shrift to the fancy-fancy boys. Farr has had two opportunities to ring the bell. If he fails to-morrow the general consensus of opinion is that he will be practically through with the big money—the big money that is so ready and so available to a heavyweight who can punch and who can fight and who shows a willingness to indulge in both.

Most people are of the opinion that Farr will outpoint the Big Baer, but some of the better known sports writers have pointed to what they term "hand-writing on the wall," claiming that all the old thundering power of Baer's brawny shoulders is still there, and that the Californian is punching harder than ever.

Baer's Devastating Right

They predict no knockout, but do point out that a "Kayo" is by no means a remote possibility. Indeed, if Baer connects with the same devastating right that killed Frankie Campbell, sped Ernie Schaaf on his way to the grave, butchered King Levinsky, washed up Carnera and stretched out Max Schmeling, they say that a "kayo" is not only a possibility but a distinct probability, despite the fact that Farr has weathered the storms of some 217 bouts with his chin as knuckle-proof as ever.

Public interest, at first lukewarm, has become intense in the new Baer, and a capacity house is expected by the promoter, Mike Jacobs.—United Press.

Farr Confident

New York, Mar. 11.

Tommy Farr, the British champion, is a 2-1 odds-on favourite to beat Max Baer, former world heavyweight champion, in their 15-round elimination bout here to-night.

Farr received two black eyes during his strenuous training, and he regards them as a good omen. "The last time I got black eyes," he said to-day, "was just before I knocked out Walter Neusel, the German heavyweight."

"I will knock out Baer," he added.

Meanwhile, the playboy pugilist, as Baer has been nicknamed, talks ceaselessly about his baby son and what he will do to Farr for his sake.

Braddock's Opinion

Jimmy Braddock, former titleholder and recent conqueror of Farr, thinks that the Englishman will win by a knockout.

The fight to-night is a return battle. In their first contest in England last year Farr beat the American.

Subsequently, Baer said: "If we meet again I shall beat Farr easily. Why, in the last round of our London fight Farr was almost out. Another round and I would have murdered him."—Reuter.

CAN BAER DO THIS AGAIN?

With the "killer" expression still visible on his face, Max Baer is seen stepping away from his prostrate victim in his fight with Kingfish Levinsky.

GRAND NATIONAL DRAWS NEAR

Don Bradman, Drinmore Lad, Dunhill Castle, Pointed Out as Likely to Win at Aintree

THE Grand National, with a hundred years of history behind it, seems annually to gain a firmer-than-ever grip on the public imagination. Small wonder, for after all it remains the world's greatest steeplechase, says Capt. Heath of the London "News Chronicle."

The race, which takes place at Liverpool on March 25, is run over four and a half miles of the stiffest country that horses are ever asked to face and victory is usually worth about £8,000 to the winner. But, great as it is, the prize counts almost as nothing compared with the honour of "winning the Grand National."

For this great race there were 79 original entries; of these about 40 will probably run. English and Irish horses predominate, but there is a French challenger in Takvor Pacha; two Americans in Battleship and What Have You; a Canadian champion in Rock Lad, the last-named an "unknown" trained now in the famous Furlong stable which sent out Reynoldstown to gain honours in the race in '35 and again in '36.

Royal Mail May Repeat

When Reynoldstown won his two successive races he was breaking a precedent which had stood for sixty years, yet many experts consider that Royal Mail, who won last year, will emulate that feat. As I write, indeed, Royal Mail is favourite for the race, yet it must be almost unmentionable odds against a "twicer" being perpetrated again so soon.

"But it is not on such hypothetical grounds that I have to pass over Royal Mail this time. It is because, when I last saw him, he did not make quite the same appeal that he did twelve months ago. There seemed to be a little "something" lacking in his jumping; in fact, he made a mistake that cost him his race. I grant that horses who have once done well over the Aintree course are the ones upon which we should concentrate, yet I sense that Dame Fortune may not bestow her favours so freely upon Royal Mail this time. We mush look elsewhere.

But where? Cooleen ran into a place last March, and might even have won but for being buffeted at a critical stage of the race. Yet sometimes she appears to be on the lethargic side, and if one of those listless moods befell her at Aintree she would not make much of a show. In fact, I feel that she may have reached the apex of her form when performing so gallantly last March.

Drinmore Lad's Great Chance

When Drinmore Lad, a stable companion of Royal Mail, went sick with internal trouble a few weeks before last year's race, he was just about as well backed a horse as the eventual winner. He is back to his best again and must have a great chance. A fine type of lepper this.

Pucka Belle will plod on when many have had quite enough, and if I were backing one to complete the course I should choose her. But while age may not have withered her fencing charms it may well have taken toll of her speed, and a Grand National winner must have pace as well as stamina.

Another grand mare is Pontet, who has an Irish "Blue Riband" to her credit. I have seen her but once and wish I knew more about her. The same remark applies to the Frenchman and the Canadian.

I am convinced that neither of the Americans is in the same class as that last powerful challenger from the States, Billy Barton, who was a gallant, but luckless second some years ago.

Problem Horse

The problem horse is Airgead Sios. He was backed to win the race several months ago, and on his day can be the most brilliant steeplechaser of the decade. Will he lack just that decisive touch of stamina?

Two fine Liverpool horses are Inversible and Brendan's Cottage. They have shown that these formidable jumps present no terrors for them, and for that reason they are admired. Dunhill Castle is a brainy sort of jumper who is bound to make a bold effort. It is said of him that "he can leap houses and catch pigeons." That, I am afraid, is an exaggeration; but he is certainly a fine fencer and a speedy one.

For such an argument as this, Provocative is aptly named. He will hold his own with most—and of most of them I have had perforce to omit mention.

But one horse, like his world-famed namesake of the cricket field, has willy nilly to come up for judgment—more than that, if you like. I refer to Don Bradman. He has a Foxhunters' Steeplechase (run over the Grand National course) to his credit, and in the great race itself last year he finished seventh after being knocked over early in the proceedings and then remounted. That is an imposing record.

Don Bradman Selected

I always think one requires a sixth sense to predict a Grand National winner some weeks in advance of the race, and I trust I may have been inspired when I suggest this will be a "D" year.

My selection is Don Bradman, but I cannot make him out to have a great deal in hand of Drinmore Lad and Dunhill Castle.

ONCE ON TOP, NOW IN THE CELLAR

Russian Club Humble the Navy Y.M.C.A.

The Navy Y.M.C.A. volleyball team, invincible in former years, were left in the cellar of the Foreign "Y" Invitation League as a result of last night's contest which was won by the Russian Club by the odd game in three.

In the first game the Navy side could do nothing to defend themselves. The team had an unusually poor start which allowed their opponents to gain a string of points. Komar, the season's new star, was the main threat with his powerful smash the pace of which was even more blistering than that of Alex Prokofieff of the Foreign "Y" or Churnoff of the Russian Regiment. Consequently, the helpless Navy team were completely outclassed and lost by 15-2.

Back With A Vengeance

The second game saw the losers come back with a vengeance. Mai immediately commenced to attack and, with Cheng and Hathaway also in impressive form, the team succeeded in gaining a 6-2 lead. By this change of the trend the Russians appeared nervous and could not regain their style in the first game. However, after the score had reached 11-5 the Navy players suddenly became erratic. A number of easy attempts were wasted and in quick time the Russians had caught up to within three points, 12-9. The ultimate losers tightened up, took the next two points but failed to close the game at that stage. They permitted the Club to come on even terms at 14-all. Through extremely hard efforts and amidst great excitement the two sides were finally tied, with Mai bringing off two fine shots to end up at 16-14.

The late-comers continued to show convincing form when the third and deciding game got under way. The Russians were rather disheartened but before long the team pulled together. Komar's leadership was the main reason for the rally which gave the team six points in a row to lead by 8-5 instead of trailing by 5-2. This sudden rise caused the opposing side to lose their confidence. Thenceforward the Russians were safely ahead and concluded at a score of 15-9.

RUSSIAN CLUB:—Komar, Kidaeff, Matulis, Usefovitch, Sherstobolev, Ludkoff, and Makedonsky.

NAVY "Y":—Mai, Tsang, Chang, Yang, Cheng, and Hathaway.

Saints Beaten

Two matches in the Third D[iv] supported the programme. In a preliminary encounter Nanyang disposed of the St. Francis Xavier College by 15-2 and 15-12 while in the last tussle Union defeated White by 15-9 and 15-11.

NANYANG:—Kan, Shen, Lai, Chang, Chen, and Sah.

S.F.X.:—W. Peterson, H. Garwood, Kabbert, F. Foyn, S. Borodin, and M. Karolich.

UNION:—Loo, Tseng, Ling, Lee, Chow, Woo, and Tseong.

WHITE:—Liu, S. Wu, T. Ling, S. Sung, C. Sze, and Loh.

FIRST EXTRA RACE MEETING TO-DAY

Steeplechase to Precede Ten Races on Flat

SNOW LIKELY TO CAUSE STICKY GOING

By "CHING"

The Shanghai Race Club are to-day opening their season's racing with their 1st Extra Race Meeting, first saddling bell at 1.15 p.m. The afternoon's programme opens with a steeplechase and is followed by ten races on the flat, in which all followers of the local sport may have the opportunity of seeing some keen and close racing.

It may be found that the heavy fall of snow during the week has left its effect on the race track, and it may be sticky going to-day, resulting in ponies turning up as winners when not expected to on training form of a week ago.

Therefore, whilst I give selections for the afternoon's flat racing, I do not do so with the same amount of confidence.

3rd Class Pony Races

Third class ponies start off with a race at 9 furlongs with novice riders only; some good ponies are amongst the list of those entered, but the two I like best are Artimid and Cherrybey. Either might win, my preference being Cherrybey. Third class ponies have three other races, distances being at ½ mile, 7 furlongs, and 1¼ mile. As I am not sure which races certain ponies will start in, I lump all these races in one, and point to Lilum, Romford and Harpylight, as likely to win, with Mischief, Don Victor and Downside as three usefull ones to place.

2nd Class Pony Races

Second class ponies have races at ¾ mile, one mile and 1¼ mile. Don Patricio, Stolzeneck and Early School, look good to win, with King of Kings, Felixstowe, and Don Pedro, likely to place.

Open Races

The open race at ¾ mile may have a small field and I shall expect to see Frostylight as the winner.

The 1¼ mile for the same class of ponies promises to be a good race, with a field of six or seven out—amongst them Sparkling Morn who has an unbeaten record so far to this credit, including a Derby and a Champion. If he is in anything like his last spring's form, he should win, which I think he will do, though both Mou Tan Hua and Roephampton are hard ones to beat on wet going, whereas Gold Vase is not too well suited by it.

The afternoon's racing finishes with a Seller at 1¼ mile which may be won by Pageant Morn, with Invicta to place.

CHARITY BOXING CARD NETS $1182.68

Charity profited to the extent of $1182 thanks to the boxing tournament held in its behalf by the Union of Russian Army and Navy Men on February 11 at the Canidrome. The receipts amounted to $2850.90 from entrance tickets and $450 from advertisements in the programme. A wide number of disbursements were necessary, amounting in all to $2118.22.

SHANGHAI HOCKEY CLUB TEAMS CHOSEN

The following teams will turn out this week-end:—

SOME COMMENTS ON THE RACES

White Major Picked to Win the Steeplechase

By "THE SQUIRE"

Rain again yesterday following the few days of snow is certain to make the going very much on the heavy side to-day. It is hoped that the steeplechase, the first event on the race card, will not have to be cancelled, but a rumour was flying round yesterday that it would be. There are eleven entries, including winners of official steeplechases in King's Jubilee, Mightylight, Sammy, Steve Brodie and White Major.

Sammy is almost certain to be a non-starter, the stable realizing that it is no use starting a good pony in going that he hates. In addition to these ponies there are winners of unofficial steeplechases, recently, in White Whiskers and Port Bradda, formerly Leaping Morn, who won, under his old name, a week ago.

These two now come in as non-winners and receive an allowance of five pounds, instead of the five pounds penalty they would have received had the Jorrocks and Vaquero Steeplechases been for a stake of $300 for first place.

An allowance, on a heavy day, is worth a great deal more than when it is a case of galloping on the top of the ground but unfortunately we don't know how these two ponies will go in the mud.

White Major Good Enough

White Major—a National Winner—should be about good enough to win in this class, despite his penalty, and we know he can go in the mud, but at the time these notes were written no riding arrangement had been made. A. A. White, who had such a successful association with the A. V. White stable, has practically given up riding in races, except for steeplechases, and it is believed that he has been booked for Port Bradda, and that Wade, who was to have ridden, will not be riding at the meeting.

Steve Brodie, if started, would be ridden by Maitland, but as the pony also has an engagement on the flat he may not go here, in which case Maitland might ride White Major—he has often ridden for the stable before—and the combination would be good enough for a gamble.

King's Jubilee has been under a bit of a cloud and he did not jump too well in the Stewards' Cup Steeplechase, but this is a real mudder and with Andrew Johnstone's allowance washing out the pony's penalty I think he must be there or thereabouts.

Several Anomalies

This question of unofficial races is bound to result in several anomalies and some are apparent here.

Saucylight, for instance; this pony, at weight for inches, was third in the Jorrocks Cup to White Whiskers, also weight for inches. In to-day's race, Saucylight is still weight for inches, but the pony that beat him gets a 5 lb. allowance, so I think we must leave him out of the reckoning to-day.

The first three ponies are likely to be past winners and my selection is White Major to win from Mightylight and King's Jubilee.

The conference of the International Olympic Committee, summoned to decide whether the games of 1940 are to be held in Tokyo as originally arranged, was officially opened by King Farouk at the Opera House here to-day.

Most of the delegation leaders believe it will be decided to hold the games in Tokyo despite endeavours of some quarters to have the games shifted to some other country in view of the Sino-Japanese conflict.—Trans-Ocean.

JAPANESE DRIVE PROCEEDS IN SHENSI PROVINCE

Six More Towns Taken After Yellow River Crossed: Traffic Halted on Lunghai Railway

Tatung, Mar. 11.

STRENGTHENING their foothold on the Shensi bank of the Yellow River with the occupation of six more towns, Japanese flying columns to-day started driving a wedge inland, Japanese reports here state. A mobile unit last evening captured Matikow, key position on the western bank of the river, which has been subjected to heavy artillery bombardments during the past two days.

Attacked by Japanese columns from three directions, Chinese troops retreated to the south-west in the direction of Shenmu along the great wall.

The drive on Matikow was launched from Pamienping, eight kilometres to the north, which had been occupied a short time previously.

Assisted by a heavy bombardment from army planes, two Japanese units, to-day pushed onward and captured Hsuholiang and Shutzechuan and the highland area between the two towns.

After a pause for a rest, the two units set out in pursuit of retreating Chinese troops, in a thrust parallel with a similar operation by two other detachments.

Five Detachments

Five Japanese detachments were operating in Shensi to-day. By nightfall on Thursday, following a day's drive, they had occupied the following villages:

Santaoyen, twelve kilometres north-west of Hochu, in Shansi; Hungyen, twenty kilometres north of Ruchu, beyond the eastward bend of the Yellow River; Tachantsun and Siaochantsun, both west of Hochu.

Five Japanese units, effected the crossing, under a withering fire from Chinese machine-gun nests on the western bank of the river. The detachments launched the attack on receiving information that General Ho Chu-kuo's troops were planning a counter-attack at Hochu.—Domei.

Tungkwan Controlled

Peiping, Mar. 11.

Although no troops have yet been sent across the Yellow River there, Tungkwan, an important railway station at the meeting place of Shansi, Shensi and Honan Provinces, is under Japanese control, a Japanese military spokesman announced here to-day.

Tungkwan station, he added, has been reduced to a shambles and the Chinese batteries on the south bank of the River have been completely silenced.

Following the intensive bombardment of Tungkwan by a Japanese motorized unit on March 9, the spokesman said, traffic on the Lunghai Railway has been suspended at this point. Strong Chinese defence works, the officer said, were demolished by the bombardment.—Domei.

Chinese Comment

Hankow, Mar. 11.

An official communique issued here to-day reports that the Chinese frustrated a Japanese attempt to cross the Yellow River.

After intensive artillery preparation, the Japanese launched an attack on the Chinese positions on the southern bank of the Yellow River under the cover of a smoke screen but they were repulsed by the Chinese. The Japanese plan provided the Chinese declare, that the troops should cross the Yellow River simultaneously in the vicinity of Yumenkao, on the frontier between the provinces of Shansi and Shensi, and at Fenlingtu, Mutsintu, Menghsien and Wenhsien.

In view of the intensive fire of the Japanese batteries, which were to make the Chinese positions on the southern bank of the Yellow River untenable, railway traffic between Tungkuan and Loyang had to be temporarily interrupted.

On the Peiping-Hankow railway and the Tientsin-Pukow front there was a relative lull in the operations yesterday and this morning, it is reported. There were only minor skirmishes between Japanese troops and Chinese irregulars in the vicinity of Tingyuan.—Trans-Ocean.

JURISDICTION OVER ALIENS CLAIMED

Japanese Military Announce Their Intentions

TRANSFER OF OWNERSHIP OF GOODS

Claiming jurisdiction over all persons residing in Chinese territory under Japanese military occupation, the Japanese military authorities last night issued a warning to individuals participating in deals connected with the transfer of ownership of property owned by "hostile Chinese."

Specifically mentioned as possible penalties were death, imprisonment, and deportation. The announcement recalled that transfers of ownership related to property belonging to hostile Chinese would not be recognized by the Japanese military authorities if effected after August 13, 1937.

"In spite of these warnings," the communique continued, "certain individuals have sought to transfer their property or to conceal their property by fraudulent methods.

"Full Severity"

"In view of these practices, the military authorities have decided to deal with persons interfering with the operations of the Japanese armed forces by indulging in devious practices, with full severity of military codes."

The provisions of these codes, the announcement said, were applicable to Japanese subjects as well as to aliens residing within Japanese-occupied territory.

Property owned by Chinese engaging in hostile acts against the Japanese forces is subject to sequestration.

MORE PAY FOR ALL MARRIED SAILORS

Extra Allowance for R.A.F. Men Also Announced

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Mar. 11.

Following the announcement of an increase in the marriage allowance of British soldiers made in the House of Commons yesterday evening by Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for War, the Government has decided on an increase for navy men and married airmen.

Mr. Geoffrey Shakespeare, Parliamentary and Financial Secretary of the Admiralty, said in the House of Commons this morning that the basic rate of allowance for naval ratings and other ranks of the Royal Marines would be increased to seventeen shillings weekly from seven, if on the 1919 scale of pay, or from ten shillings weekly, if on the 1925 scale of pay. All Special Service men would be placed on a continuous rate of pay.

Lt.-Col. A. J. Muirhead, Under-Secretary for Air, announced that marriage emoluments would be granted to all married airmen over 26 years of age, on similar lines to the Army.—Reuter.

S.M.C. Budget and Taxation for This Year

It was estimated that the yield from this measure for the half year ending December 31, 1938, would be in the neighbourhood of $111,000.

The Treasurer and Controller stated that he had made no recommendation on this subject at the present time. He had submitted one in December last. The Chairman stated that the Council, previously reached the conclusion reluctantly that it had no legal authority to impose this surtax without the approval of the Ratepayers. He now proposed that they recommend to the Council that it be proposed to the Ratepayers that they retain existing fees and apply a special surcharge of 10 per cent. thereon with effect from July 1. This would make it clear that it was a temporary imposition to aid the Council in coping with the financial position resulting from the present emergency.

Members agreed and it was recommended

(a) that the Schedule of Rates, Taxes, Dues and Fees for 1938, as submitted by the Treasurer and Controller, be adopted.

(b) That with effect from July 1, 1938, a surcharge of 10 per cent. be made on all licence and permit fees.

The Council on March 9 endorsed the recommendation of the Finance Committee.

SOVIET WILL HELP BUT NOT FIGHT

Chinese Envoy Reports on Return from Moscow

UNLIMITED SUPPLIES BUT NO WAR WITH JAPAN

Hankow, Mar. 11.

Soviet Russia will give every assistance possible to China in her struggle with Japan, but under no circumstances will Soviet Russia go to war against Japan.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Chiang Ting-fu, former Chinese Ambassador in Moscow, who has just returned to Hankow from the Soviet capital, and forms the major part of the Ambassador's report to General Chiang Kai-shek regarding Sino-Soviet relations.

The Soviet's refusal to fight Japan is, according to Dr. Chiang, based on: the Soviet's isolation in international relations; and the Soviet's internal difficulties.

M. Litvinov, the Soviet Foreign Minister, is understood to have informed the Chinese authorities that not only had the Soviet received no assurances from either Great Britain or America that they would support her in case she decided to fight Japan but, also, that the French Government had advised the Soviet to stay out of the Far Eastern conflict.

Envoy's Recall

It is, moreover, rumoured here that M. Bogomolov, former Soviet Ambassador to China, was recalled because he had made promises and commitments to the Chinese Government which the Soviet Government had no intention of fulfilling, for the reason that the position of the present Government in Moscow might be endangered by any participation in a major war against a foreign power.

The extent to which the U.S.S.R. is prepared to aid China is understood to have been explained to Dr. Chiang as meaning that the Soviet is willing to put an unlimited quantity of supplies at the disposal of China, but that China must be responsible for the transportation of such supplies from the U.S.S.R. to China.—Reuter.

FIERCE ENGAGEMENT IN PALESTINE

32 Arabs Killed When Planes Go Into Action

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Haifa, Mar. 11.

A fierce engagement occurred last night near Safad between troops and police and a band of over 100 armed Arabs, 32 of whom are said to have been killed from the air when aeroplanes went into action.

The clash followed the ambush of a police patrol. Reinforcements of police and troops were rushed to the scene together with aeroplanes. No casualties have hitherto been reported among the forces.

The battle continued after nightfall, the forces using searchlights and torches to assist them in their operations.—Reuter.

British Soldier Killed

Haifa, Mar. 11.

One British private was killed while fighting in north Palestine yesterday. Operations are being continued to-day.

Three hundred Arabs, it is understood, are surrounded near the northern frontier.—Reuter.

An agreement was also reached between the Latvian and Soviet governments and between the Swedish and Soviet governments for closing in the nearest future of the Latvian and Swedish consulates in Leningrad.—Tass.

SPY SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN CHUNGKING

Chungking, Mar. 11.

Several suspects were recently arrested in Chungking on a charge of espionage and taken to Hankow for trial. # MOONEY CONTINUES FREEDOM FIGHT

Twenty-Year Prisoner Again Asserts His Innocence

Sacramento, Calif., Mar. 10.

Tom Mooney, imprisoned for alleged complicity in San Francisco's Preparedness Day bombing in 1916, continued his fight for freedom here to-day by appearing before the State Assembly in the custody of the warden of the prison in which he has been confined for over 20 years.

The balcony of the Assembly was packed with spectators and dozens of cameramen and reporters swarmed the Assembly floor attempting to photograph or interview Mooney. The Assembly earlier had rejected a move to broadcast the hearings over the radio.

Wearing spectacles and attired in a dark suit, Mooney nodded to friends in the Assembly as he again asserted his innocence.

At midnight the Assembly was deadlocked at 39 to 35 on a proposal to grant legislative pardon to Mr. Mooney. Leaders of the plan sought for two absentee legislators hoping to secure the two additional votes necessary for a majority vote in California. The group opposed to the Mooney pardon denounced the unprecedented Assembly appearance which they termed "one of the sorriest spectacles in the history of California."—United Press.

"SPIRITUAL MOBILIZATION" PROGRAMME

Motion pictures, street lectures, radio broadcasts, theatrical performances and special newspaper editions featuring the significance of the different days, are to be included in the "Spiritual Mobilization" programme.—Reuter.

Japanese Kidnapped Near Kashing

Two Japanese merchants yesterday were being held for ransom by a band of about 2,000 outlaws camped near Kashing, 80 kilometres south-west of Shanghai. The two men left Shanghai on a sales expedition by boat on February 28. While on their way from Kashing to Hsinshih on March 3, they were met by a band of about 100 bandits who attacked the launch Hsieh Hu, used as a tug for a convoy of junks. The attack, the "Shanghai Mainichi" said, took place near Lantsun.

British Army Reorganization Explained in Commons

The principles underlying the proposed reorganization was summed up by Mr. Hore-Belisha in a striking passage.

"The strength of the Navy," he said, "is assessed in ships and not in personnel, that of the Air Force in squadrons and not in ground staff. Following this line of thought, the strength of a modern army is based not on individual but rather on fire units which combine fire power and mobility.

"Why alone in the Army should heads be counted and fire power and mobility discounted?" Every man in a unit above the number needed was an additional target and strain on the service, which had to feed and maintain him, including diversions of naval and air forces, which had to protect his passage.

Finally, on reorganization and mechanization, Mr. Hore-Belisha called attention to the suitability and advantages of the mechanized standard to a great industrial country like Britain, since employment in the Army was closely related with the men's normal avocations and interests, and since a rapid and effective expansion was accordingly made easier.

The speed with which the army was being mechanized and supplied with modern fire producing weapons was best revealed, the Minister thought, in the fact that the provision of over £43,000,000 for this purpose in the present Estimates was greater than the whole of the Army Estimates, including pay and pensions, in 1934.

Less "Spit and Polish" Wanted

Reviewing the changes successively announced through recent months in the organization at the War Office, Mr. Hore-Belisha said that the central arm in all these reforms had been to abbreviate the hiatus between consideration and decision.

Coming to what he called the more human side, he described the changes proposed or contemplated in the conditions of the Army itself with the intention of making it, in all respects, an embodiment of business like practice.

He offered, as an earnest of that intention, "the progressive elimination from a soldier's drill of all superfluous postures requiring rehearsal and from his kit of all superfluous gadgets requiring polish."

The new clothing would be adapted to the soldier's increasingly mechanized function.

The most important change announced was the introduction of the rank of warrant officers, class three, which would increase the prospects of other ranks, effect a reduction in the number of subaltern officers, and aid more rapid promotion for all officers.

Other proposals were adumbrated, but a complete scheme awaits further inter-departmental consideration of the report of Lord Willingdon's Committee of the supply of army officers.

Making Recruits Fit

In detailing lesser changes in the terms of enlistment and service, and many concessions to officers and men in the Regular Army estimated to cost £1,600,000 in 1938, apart from the cost of a barracks rebuilding programme, the Minister touched briefly on the success of the experimental physical development depot established to bring applicants for enlistment, who were below the high physical standards of the army medical boards, to a better state of health by diet and exercise.

He mentioned that 92 per cent. of those attending the depot had subsequently passed into the Army as fully fit.

The Government, the War Secretary said, proposed to experiment with direct enlistment for twelve years with the colours, with certain prospects (subject to suitability) of being re-engaged for pension.

Other financial benefits would include four cumulative increments of 3d. per diem at the end of the first, second, eighth and thirteenth years, in addition to a special 3d. for proficiency pay, and an increase in the family allowance for married men over 26 to seventeen shillings, in addition to allowances for children. The new rates would take effect from April 30.—Wireless and Reuter.

The Caravan was escorted by 60 guards. Outside Riad the caravan was met by members of the Saudi Arabian Cabinet. At the King's palace, a reception was held in honour of the British guests.

The first day of the visit was devoted to a hunt with picturesque ceremonies and equestrian displays in which the Arabs demonstrated their magnificent horsemanship.

GENIUS WHO MADE AIR HISTORY

Major Mayo, Inventor of Mayo Composite Aircraft Got Idea Six Years Ago

WATCHING the historic trial flight of the pick-a-back machine on Feb. 6 was a tall, broad-shouldered, slim man with keen, clean-shaven face.

A quiet voice and an even quieter manner betrayed nothing of an inner excitement as the two machines rose into the air, locked together; a feeling of relief and victory as they parted in mid-air and flew off as separate machines.

The man is Major Robert Hobart Mayo, inventor of the Mayo composite aircraft. The flight was born of an idea he had six years ago, states the Air correspondent of the "News Chronicle."

To-day he is Technical General Manager of Imperial Airways. Back in 1931, Major Mayo was aboard ship bound for America and the West Indies, spying out the land for the Atlantic air services now in the experimental stage.

He saw clearly that only by means of high speed combined with long range could air services across the Atlantic be made successful.

No one knew better than he that a high speed aircraft able to fly non-stop over long distances is so weighted with its essential petrol load that it can carry very little else and has difficulty in getting into the air.

Wrestling with this problem, he evolved the idea of the pick-a-back composite machine. That was the broad idea. The long-range machine would have enough power to give it high speed when once in the air, but the deficiency in power to get it into the air would be supplied by a large, lightly-loaded machine on whose back the transport aeroplane would be mounted.

The secondary problem was not how to lock them together for the take-off, but how to separate the heavily-loaded aircraft from the porter machine.

Defying Gravity

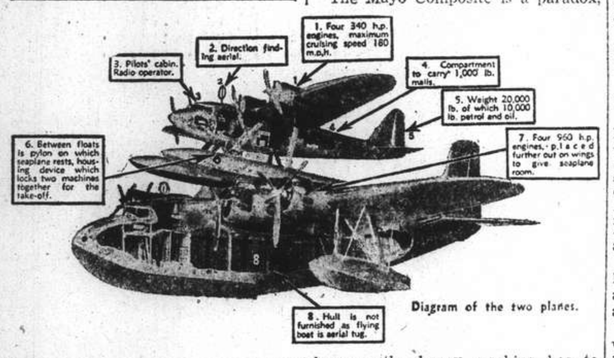
Curiously enough, Major Mayo did not know, until after he had patented his completed plans, that a Bristol Bullet fighter was flown off the back of a Porte flying-boat during the war. In this instance a lightly-loaded fighter machine was carried into the air by a heavily-loaded flying-boat, serving simply as a mobile aerodrome for the fighter.

The Mayo Composite is a paradox, because the heavy machine has to lift itself away from the less loaded aircraft, thus more or less defying the laws of gravity. Moreover, the composite is not just two aeroplanes tied together, as was the case with the rather heroic war-time experiment.



1. Four 340 h.p. engines, maximum cruising speed 180 m.p.h.
2. Direction finding aerial.
3. Pilots' cabin. Radio operator.
4. Compartment to carry 1,000 lb. mails.
5. Weight 20,000 lb. of which 10,000 lb. petrol and oil.
6. Between floats is pylon on which seaplane rests, housing device which locks two machines together for the take-off.
7. Four 950 h.p. engines, placed further out on wings to give seaplane room.
8. Hull is not furnished as flying boat is aerial tug.
Diagram of the two planes.

The lower flying-boat and the upper seaplane form, when locked together, a perfect eight-engined biplane, neither of the components interfering with the flying qualities of the other.

Major Mayo is one of the big brains in the British aircraft industry. He was a brilliant student who has fulfilled the promise of his youth.

Born in Cambridge in 1890, Robert Hobart Mayo went to his home university and graduated with a "double first" in mathematics and engineering. Flying was his interest as a young man.

Fought With R.F.C.

In 1913 he went down from Cambridge to join the staff of the Royal Aircraft Factory at Farnborough, and the following year, at the age of 24, became head of the experimental department.

The war arrived. The young engineer learned to fly and went to France with the Royal Corps. In 1916 he returned to England to become senior officer of the squadron of pilots at Martlesham with the exciting but dangerous job of testing all new types of aeroplanes.

From 1918 he was head of the aeroplane design section at the Air Ministry. Then he returned to consulting engineering, which led to his being appointed technical adviser to Imperial Airways.

Machine's Future

I asked Major Mayo about the future development of the composite machine. "I cannot say," he replied, "but I hope it will play a useful part in the development of long-range Empire services. This first machine must be regarded purely as a prototype which has proved the principle.

It was designed as a seaplane so that it would be used on both the northern and the southern routes over the North Atlantic. The route via the Azores and Bermuda necessitates marine aircraft because no land facilities are possible at Bermuda.

The composite principle is to be applied to landplanes—a large aeroplane taking another smaller long-range aeroplane on its back. The principle can be applied to aeroplanes large enough to provide sleeping accommodation for passengers. Designs are in hand for larger machines to carry bigger loads at much higher speeds and over longer distances.

OLD ISLAND CUSTOM PUZZLES JUDGE

Bedroom Visits at Midnight by "Bundling" Romeos

THERE IS NO SECRET ABOUT IT

"I do not know whether this is modern laxity of morals or whether, as I think, it is a survival of an old custom in that part of the country."

In these words Lord Aitchison, the Lord Justice Clerk, in the Edinburgh Court of Session, expressed his opinion of "bundling," an Orkney Islands custom, whereby

Young lovers, with the aid of ladders, climb into the bedrooms of young women after midnight.

Lord Aitchison was reviewing the evidence in the application by Miss Gean McAdie, of Deerness, Orkney, for an affiliation order against David Work, of Deerness, who, she alleged, was the father of her child.

The girl admitted that since she was 18 or 20 youths of her own age had visited her in her bedroom at night. On these occasions her door was locked.

"No Shame"

Giving judgment, Lord Mackay declared: "She expressed no shame at having received the young men through her bedroom window by the use of a farm ladder.

She alleges Work has paid about 50 such visits to her in nearly six years, and that she was always in bed when he visited her, and he nearly always got into bed beside her.

Work's case, Lord Mackay continued is that on no occasion in all that time was he alone in the room with Miss McAdie.

After referring to earlier calls on the girl in her bedroom, up ladders and later through an open back door of a farm and up a staircase, Lord Mackay declared that both the young man and the girl, their solicitors and the sheriff seemed unanimously to treat these visits—to our more sophisticated minds somewhat peculiar calls—as illustrations of a perfectly innocent social custom.

So far from attempting to deny them, he went on, Work from the first has stated that such visits took place. He refuses only to name those who were with him from a scruple which would have been better overruled.

Having regard to this social habit, the identification of a solitary man's visit will require to be better than that provided by Miss McAdie."

Judgment was given for Work and the girl's application was rejected.

"Bundling Custom"

Speaking of the custom as commented on in the court, the Rev. Gilbert W. Moore, of Old Walls Church, Longhope, Orkney, declared in an interview that in a number of areas the old Orkney custom by which young men visited the bedrooms of their sweethearts at night—known as "bundling"—was still fairly common.

It is difficult to say how it originated," he said, but it is a practice which the church authorities here regard with extreme disfavour.

We are doing all we can to remove it entirely from the islands, and we are hopeful that soon it will be a thing of the past.

Bundling has been carried on for centuries in countries where fuel is scarce. The practice is inspired by the need to keep warm cheaply, the "News of the World" learned from Mr. H. Coote Lake, secretary of the Folk Lore Society.

The custom has survived in the sparsely inhabited country districts of Wales, the Isle of Man, and the West of Scotland," he went on.

It is a perfectly innocent custom. In the two-roomed country worker's dwelling the living-room, in winter, is the only warmed room. There the family assembles.

The cold bedroom is thus the only place where the courting couple may enjoy privacy.

They use the bedroom, and, to keep warm, they climb into bed.

Church "Frowned"

The origin of bundling is lost in the mists of time, but one of the rules is that the young man must go to the girl waiting in the bedroom through her window, climbing a ladder to do so, if necessary.

Parents know what is going on, and approve, but the Church has always frowned. To me, bundling seems an extremely sensible custom, though I admit it is one that might at times become a little dangerous.

In parts of Wales the young women wear a special garment for bundling.

In the Orkney girl's case, it was said the bundling visits took place after midnight. This is not generally so. They take place any time after dark.

Very often, in the poorer cottages, the girl may share her parents' bedroom, but that does not prevent bundling.

The Colonial Secretary, Mr. W. Ormsby-Gore, was questioned in the House of Commons to-day regarding the Hongkong Government's attitude to the majority and minority reports of the Mui-Tsai Commission, and when a decision might be expected.

Mr. W. # POIGNANT REAL LIFE STORY

Author of "The Broken Doll" And Many Popular Songs Now Living in Poverty

TWENTY years or more ago the "Tommies" on the battlefields of France and Flanders, and the folk at home, hummed a popular song. It was called "The Broken Doll." To-day that catchy refrain has a tragic echo. The author, once wealthy and well known, lives in a common lodging-house on the north side of the Thames. He is "broke" in the worldly sense, but, as he said, "My spirit remains unbroken."

Over 250,000 copies of the song were sold, and in the days when it became such a "hit," it was published in the popular "News of the World" series of songs.

Its author was debonair Clifford Harris, friend of famous actors, actresses, and theatre managers. He made more than £2,000 from the song.

At the time he lived in a big house at Burnham-on-Crouch. He was a member of the Burnham Yacht Club.

He owned a yacht and a motor launch. He employed a number of servants and gardeners.

He was driven up to town daily by his own chauffeur in his own luxurious motor-car.

For years he had the song-writing world at his feet.

Popular numbers flowed from his pen with astonishing ease. They included "Every Little While I Feel So Lonely," "Give Me a Little Cosy Corner," "I Was a Good Little Girl Till I Met You," and those two popular numbers in "The Maid of the Mountains"—"A Bachelor Gay Am I" and "Paradise For Two."

He spent freely and entertained lavishly. Then came the jazz era, and the decline of Clifford Harris as a song writer.

Now, at the age of 62, he lives with his memories in a lodging-house in Camden Town.

He is existing on a grant of £1 a week from a benevolent society and the small royalties he still draws from the "Maid of the Mountains."

I have just completed writing my life story, Harris said, when seen at the lodging-house.

I am still writing songs. I can't help it.

Soon the public will tire of this modern nonsense. They will demand a return to the old songs which had some meaning in them.

Stars in A Night

Then I shall come into my own again. I shall write numbers that will make new stars in a night.

The name of Clifford Harris will once again ring throughout theatreland.

Something of the old fire came back into Clifford Harris's eyes as he unfolded his life story, and recalled the days when he smoked cigars costing him on the average £3 10s. a week—nearly double what he is living on now.

I was born at Harborne, near Birmingham, on May 26, 1875, he said.

My father was a draper and at the age of 12 I had to leave the board school and become a draper's assistant.

One day I heard a minister preach a sermon on culture, and I decided to educate myself. I read and read until I had mastered the English language.

Ill health drove me, when I was only 20, on a voyage to New Zealand. The voyage saved my life. I stayed there for two years, and it was in Auckland that I wrote my first song.

My friends out there encouraged me to return home. I came back to Birmingham, took a job again as a draper's assistant, and wrote songs in my spare time.

One day Ada Reeve, the operatic and musical comedy star, came to Birmingham.

I stopped her at the stage door and she bought my first song in England for £2 2s.

Then I fell in with Felix Powell—the man who subsequently wrote "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag"—and we began writing together.

Great Piece of Luck

Our great piece of luck arrived when the late James W. Tate came to Birmingham.

He bought three of our songs, and soon afterwards he asked me to go into partnership with him.

Thus began an association lasting from 1903 until his death in 1922, with the exception of seven years when I was in America.

I earned thousands of pounds, and spent them just as easily and quickly. 'A Broken Doll' was written in little more than 20 minutes while I was smoking one cigar. It brought me more than £2,000. 'Every Little While' made nearly as much.

I was on top of the world. Royalties poured in. Famous singers competed for my songs. I went here, there, and everywhere. Everyone wanted to meet me.

I had a big house, a car, a yacht, everything that any man could want.

To-day I am poor and almost friendless. No one wants to see my songs. I have learned the meaning of hunger and loneliness.

But my spirit is not yet broken. I shall come back again.

I am not a braggart or a boaster. I have a feeling that my luck will change, and that before long I shall be able to leave these surroundings.

Not that I want the life of my heyday back again. Riches mean nothing to me now, though if I had them again I should do some good with them.

I could have remained rich had I liked when jazz came.

But I loathe and detest jazz. It means nothing. The public will tire of it soon.

Then my big chance will come again and I shall be ready for it.

My life story which I have just finished will be called 'A Broken Doll: The Autobiography of a Modern Dick Whittington.'

Take it from me, I shall return again!"

SEVEN DEATHS IN SHIP'S CREW

Terrible Conditions Aboard Steamer Told in Court

MOTHER OF ONE OF CREW SUES COMPANY

How a ship, described as a "fatal vessel," was alleged to have gone from port to port in the North Atlantic with the water supply gradually becoming worse and the crew suffering from stomach trouble and malaria, until seven of them died, was told at Newcastle-on-Tyne on January 27 by Mr. A. Ross, representing the mother of one of the dead men. She was Isabella Craig, widow, of Seafield Terrace, South Shields, who claimed against the Lover Navigation Company, Limited, owners of the vessel, the Sea Rambler, states the "Manchester Guardian."

Mr. Ross said that he would attempt to show that seven members of the crew died at Funchal, Maderia, from gastric poisoning and malaria. He understood that the respondents' case was that the men had died from yellow fever, but if this was so he would plead that yellow fever was a risk of their trade. However, it would be a remarkable thing that out of 24 healthy men seven died of yellow fever within a few days of each other.

He said that between Dakar and Kaolokh, two north African ports, the ship carried a gang of native labourers who lived on the deck under almost impossible conditions. On the way to Caronte, Portugal, five of the crew were treated for stomach trouble. On July 5, 1936, at Caronte the water-tanks were refilled, though no steps were taken to disinfect them. On July 18 the crew complained about the water, and the ship put into Gibraltar on July 22 while the starboard tank was emptied and filled, though again there was no attempt to sterilize the tank.

The ship went on to Dakar to pick up another gang of labourers, who lived under the same conditions as before on the voyage to Kaolokh and Zighinchor and back to Dakar. At Zighinchor the mosquitoes were very troublesome, and some of the men went ashore, saying the mosquitoes were less troublesome than on the ship.

Thirteen in Hospital

On the way to Gibraltar, owing to several of the crew falling ill the course was changed for Funchal, where the port doctor diagnosed botulism and malaria. Thirteen of the men were put into hospital and seven died. The master threw overboard all the meat on the ship, at the order of the port doctor.

The master was left at Madeira, the first officer promoted to master, and the ship came back to North Shields with a crew supplemented by Portuguese seamen.

Mr. Ross said that on the result of this case would depend several similar cases.

Mr. Craig said that her son, John C. Craig (26), was a seaman, and had never had a day's illness in his life.

William Templeman (28), of Saville Street, South Shields, cook of the Sea Rambler, said that after he had complained to the captain about the water he was told to strain it, but later he boiled all the water before using it. After he left Gibraltar for Dakar he was ill and dizzy every time he drank any water.

Other members of the crew described their symptoms as being dizziness and pains in the stomach.

Evidence taken at Funchal was read. The doctor's evidence showed that there was no sign of yellow fever. He admitted he had never made a postmortem examination in a case of yellow fever.

Analyst's Report

Ronald Oliver Blench, analyst, of Newcastle, at that time working at Funchal, told of samples of water and tea handed to him. In one sample of the tea there was a minute amount of lead. Of the water samples one was absolutely filthy and totally unfit for human consumption, having apparently been polluted by sewage. Another, though not so dirty, was extremely bad as drinking water, and a third was dirty and not fit for consumption.

Replying to Mr. J. Harvey Robson, for the company, he admitted that the taking of samples at different times would affect the result of his analysis.

Blench said that he did not find in the water any parasites injurious to man, but at the same time said that the water was so filthy that drinking it could not be other than harmful.

John du Plessis, Langrishe lecturer on public health at Edinburgh University, said that he had read the analyst's report and agreed the water was unfit for human consumption.

Answering Mr. Robson, he agreed that some of the symptoms the men showed indicated yellow fever rather than malaria, but others were equally indicative of malaria.

The hearing was adjourned.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, Mar. 10.

Trading on the Stock Exchange today was inactive, with operators being little disposed to extend their commitments owing to the French crisis and the forthcoming Austrian plebiscite. "Selling, however, was negligible and the easier trend was attributable to a lack of support. Far Eastern bonds ruled firm on reports of an Anglo-Japanese agreement on the subject of the Chinese Customs.—Reuter.

U.S. COMMODITIES

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Mar. 10.

The cotton market early declined on lower Liverpool and Bombay advices, liquidation and hedging. Later, prices partially rallied on trade and speculative buying. Finally, the market again eased on shorts and southern selling and renewed liquidation, but closed steady, with quotations ranging from 2 to 5 points down.

Prices in the rubber market advanced moderately on higher cables and some trade buying. Interest, however, was still lacking. At the last call-over, gains of 6 to 9 points were recorded.

After being steady, wheat prices in Chicago declined on liquidation, the weakness abroad, and poor export and mill demands. At the final bell, losses of 3/8 to 3/4 of a cent were registered.

BERLIN BOURSE

Berlin, Mar. 10.

On the share market to-day interest was shown by investors in a few popular favourites only, the price trend in all other sections of the market being erratic. Bank customers placed few buying orders although numerous satisfactory balance sheets and good economic reports provided a strong stimulus. The news of the resignation of the French Government was much discussed but had little effect on business.

Electrics and public utilities opened friendly, Siemens & Halske advancing 2 to 204. Minings were better, Hapeners, advancing 1 1/4 to 169 3/4. Rayons were also firmer.

Fixed interest securities were very firm, the demand being brisk but supplies inadequate. Reichs Old Liquidation Loan rose 3/8 to 133 1/8. Gold mortgage bonds were again in a stronger demand than the market could meet.

In industrial bonds German Dye Trusts were unchanged at 130 3/8. Harpeners advanced 1/8 to 126 1/8.

Call money stood at 2 3/4 to 3 per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

MAJOR BROS. LTD. MEETING

Hostilities Interfere with Year's Working

The Annual General Meeting of Messrs Major Bros. Ltd., was held at 20 Canton Road yesterday, Mr. W. Mellor presided supported by Messrs W. B. O. Middleton and G. H. Purcell, directors. Holders of 2,254 shares were represented at the meeting.

The chairman in his speed said:—The Report and Accounts having been in your hands for some time, I shall with your permission, follow the usual course and ask you to take them as read.

The business of the Company was expanding in common with most other local industries until the hostilities broke out in August of last year, and if normal conditions had prevailed throughout the year the result of the year's working would have been considerably better than is shown in the accounts now before you. On the outbreak of hostilities the Works were closed down and all the necessary precautions taken to prevent as far as possible any serious material damage to the plant and buildings, which we have been most fortunate in escaping.

Deliveries of our finished product fell away very considerably during the last five months of the year, but I am pleased to be able to state that business was slightly better during the first two months of this year and I hope this improvement will continue.

Work Restarted

Operations were re-commenced during November of last year as soon as possible after hostilities moved from the immediate vicinity of Shanghai, and we have continued working since then. As already mentioned there is some improvement in offtake, but I am afraid the Company cannot anticipate that for some considerable time the demand will approach the level attained during the first seven months of last year. Many of the factories using our product have been either destroyed or so seriously damaged as to prohibit their working; also many of our consumers depend for their work upon other local industries being able to function normally, which they cannot do now.

I wish to take this opportunity of placing on record the Directors' appreciation of the good work done by Mr. Fisher, the General Manager, and his assistants, Messrs. Ashworth and Zee during the year and particularly during the period of hostilities in the precautions taken to reduce the risk of serious damage to a minimum.

Before putting the Resolutions to the Meeting, I shall endeavour to answer to the best of my ability any questions Shareholders may wish to ask.

There being no questions, the following resolutions were passed:—

Proposed by: W. Mellor.
Seconded by: W. B. O. Middleton.

That the Report and accounts for the year ended December 31, 1937, together with the recommendation as to the appropriation of the balance at credit
